STALINGRAD BATTLE AT CRISIS

Allies Smash 13 Jap Raiders At Darwin

USE SECRET TACTICS IN AIR BATTLE

Thwart Japanese in Heaviest Attempt of War to Bomb Key Port.

LOSE NO PLANES

Enemy Drops Explosives In Wild Flight From Attack, Damage Very Light.

(By United Press)

GEN. M'ARTHUR'S HEADQUARTERS, Australia — Allied fighter pilots using new secret battle tactics shot down at least 13 Japanese planes and probably 15 or more out of an enemy fleet of 47 which attacked the great north Australian base of Darwin, it was announced today.

Not a single Allied plane was downed.

Curtiss P-40 planes, in what Gen. Douglas MacArthur himself called brilliant tactical interception, dived at all angles on a powerful force of 20 new Japanese Zero fighters and 27 heavy bombing planes.

Holding their fire until the last, the Allied pilots smashed the Japanese attack completely. They shot down at least nine Zeros and four bombers, saw two other bombers struggling off jettisoning their bombs and trailing smoke and damaged others so severely that it seemed highly unlikely they reached the nearest enemy bases.

So devastating was the Allied attack, the enemy bombers never had a chance to drop their bombs on military targets. Such bombs as were not jettisoned in wild flight struck in the bush outside the Darwin defense zone and started a few grass fires. The fires were the only damage in one of the biggest Japanese raids.

It was the first enemy attack on Darwin since July 30. Then seven enemy fighters and two bombers were shot out of a fleet of 22 Zeros and 27 bombers, a total of 49, for the loss of one Allied fighter.

Thus the score in two raids was at least 22 and probably 24 enemy

6 Tax Districts Get Advances As Collection Ends

While Richland county real estate tax collections approached the $650,000 mark today, Arthur S. Beck, deputy county auditor, reported that six school districts and townships had been granted advances totaling $133,600 against the receipts for the final half of the year.

With $2,667 added to the tax receipts Saturday, County Treasurer Charles C. Payne said the collection should easily reach $650,000 to make it more than a 100 per cent collection for the final half of the year.

Largest advances against the collection have been made to the Mansfield schools which already have received $120,000 of their share of the receipts. Beck estimated that they still have about $40,000 coming.

Other advances to school districts included:

Cass township, $4,000; Springfield township, $5,000; Union Rural, $3,000, and Plymouth Village schools, $1,200. Mifflin township trustees obtained $400 for their road fund.

HITS FEAR

Arnold Days Dread of Depression Slows War Effort.

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Unwarranted fear of a terrible depression following the current war is hindering the war effort, Thurman W. Arnold, assistant U. S. attorney general, said last night.

"Not until we get over this phobia can we become really united," he said. "If we really believe in the capitalistic system we can make it produce prosperity after the war."

Urge Greater Police Power For Wardens

Sportsmen Seek to Aid In War Effort; Hear M'Sweeney.

Delegates and members of the League of Ohio Sportsmen passed two resolutions with a view to aiding the nation's war effort and received the praise of John McSweeney, Democratic candidate for governor, for the league's conservation program at closing sessions of the organization's two-day summer conference yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel.

Although more than 300 sportsmen and conservationists were expected to attend the session, tire rationing reduced the attendance to approximately 100. Every section of Ohio was represented, however.

Because of threatening weather and the small attendance, the scheduled dedications of the Johnny Appleseed and Boy Scout forest at Charles Mill lake was postponed until this fall.

The league went on record as favoring the deputization of county game wardens with full peacetime officer powers to assist with civilian defense program and to help detect attempts at sabotage.

Another resolution recommended that manufacturers of synthetic rubber use alcohol or other products of the soil instead of crude oil which the league officials committee said was needed by too many other things and is irreplaceable.

The delegates authorized the naming of a committee by League President Richard Lindemann of Delphos to work with the Ohio Chamber of Commerce in the development of its soil and water conservation program.

Appearing at the conference for a brief talk Sunday noon, McSweeney commended the league for its conservation program and urged members to "keep alive the spirit of the outdoors during the war."

O'DANIEL WINS

Ex-Flour Salesman Has Big Lead in Senate Race.

DALLAS, Tex.—(INS)—U. S. Sen. W. Lee O'Daniel, Fort Worth flour salesman who started his political career by campaigning successfully for governor with the aid of a hillbilly band, today apparently had won another victory, this one in his bid for renomination to the senate.

With returns in from all of Texas' 254 counties, most of them complete, the native Ohioan was leading former Gov. James V. Allred in the run-off Democratic primary by more than 12,000 votes. Victory in the Texas Democratic primary is tantamount to election.

The latest figures furnished by the Texas election bureau were: O'Daniel 438,872; Allred, 426,616.

BATTLE BLAZE

Additional Firefighters Sent Into National Forest.

LOS ANGELES —(INS)— Additional fire fighters were rushed to the Los Angeles national forest today to battle a brush fire which already has blackened more than 3,500 acres and in which two men may have lost their lives.

Rangers reported that the Spade canyon cabin of two unidentified gold miners was destroyed by the swiftly-moving blaze shortly after the fire broke out in the forest yesterday afternoon. Fate of the two miners was not known.

NEW YORK—(AP)—In the largest flyaway delivery yet made from this country to South America, 44 new American-made aircraft have completed a 9,000-mile flight from Hagerstown, Md., to Rio De Janeiro to replace obsolete German Focke-Wulfs for training and transport work as the United Nation's newest ally mobilizes for war.

Thousands Jam Brazil Recruiting Offices to Join Fight on Axis

Enemy Agents Hurried to Concentration Camps In Round-up.

BULLETIN

Rio De Janeiro—(INS)—Three enemy submarines have been sunk off the Brazilian coast during the last 24 hours, well informed sources said today.

(By United Press)

RIO DE JANEIRO—Thousands jammed recruiting offices today to enlist in the fight against the Axis.

Today was the first day since Brazil declared war on Germany and Italy Saturday that recruiting offices were open. Thousands more were expected to be drafted.

Concentration camps swelled with fifth columnists, spies, enemy agents and Axis sympathizers, as a nationwide drive for internal enemies progressed. Hundreds of Germans and Italians, finally learning what it is to be refugees, poured across the border into Uruguay, openly and secretly.

But if they expected to find sanctuary there, they were soon to be disappointed. Uruguay, in complete sympathy with Brazil's stand, announced it had "full knowledge" of the migration, and that all would be arrested and turned over to Brazilian authorities. Some already were reported to have been seized.

Police in Maceio, Alagoas state, arrested two Germans and two Italians, and they were promptly sentenced to forced labor at ma-

TAFT ASKS FOR 10% SALES TAX

Urges Steep Levy to Boost War Revenue as Senate Rewrites Measure.

BULLETIN

WASHINGTON—(U.P.)—A senate finance subcommittee today agreed to recommend adoption of the Ruml plan for "forgiving 1941 individual income taxes in order to put collections on a current basis.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON — The senate finance committee begins rewriting the house tax bill today as Sen. Robert A. Taft, R., O., called for a 10 per cent general retail sales tax.

Taft estimated that his proposal would raise about $4,000,000,000 annually in new revenue. He objected to the pending house bill, which would raise $6,270,000,000 a year, because "it fails to tax two-thirds of the people's income" despite lowering exemptions and raising the tax rates.

Bailey Sets Up Three More Days For Sugar Rationing

Admittedly acting under pressure from scores of Richland county residents, James Bailey, county rationing board secretary, announced today that a special registration period had been arranged for "tardy" applicants for fall canning sugar.

Bailey stated Saturday that all applicants who had failed to register at the regular registration period August 13 and 14 would not be able to register "for some time."

But today the secretary admitted that protests by applicants had prompted him to arrange for additional registrations at the Richland county courthouse basement Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday from 10 a. m. to 4 p. m.

Yesterday, The News-Journal carried an account of a complaint of Mansfield resident who had been refused sugar for canning because he had not applied during two-day registration period earlier this month.

The complainant said he had been out of the city on those days, but needed the sugar in order to can fruit now ripe on trees on his property.

Although a national directive said that persons who had not obtained canning sugar on the designated registration days could apply any time thereafter to local boards, Bailey had decreed that no applications could be handled, asserting that his staff needed all its time to file the 12,000 applications received on Aug. 13 and 14. He said this task would have to be completed before his office would accept any further sugar applications.

Bailey said that "an early peach season" was partly responsible for the board's decision to handle additional registrations but also said that it was arranged to relieve the board of the pressure of requests from "tardy" applicants.

HITLER WEAKENS

Tells Quisling to Make Peace With Norwegian Church.

STOCKHOLM —(INS)— Vidkun Quisling, Nazi premier of Norway, has returned to Oslo from Germany under orders from Adolf Hitler to make peace with the Norwegian church, Stockholm newspapers declared today.

It was believed that the Hitler change in attitude was due to representations of German military authorities in Norway, in view of the danger of Allied invasion of the country.

They suggested to Hitler that it would be unwise to provoke the Norwegians unnecessarily, it was reported.

The Norwegian church and the Nazi authorities in Norway have been at odds for months, and many church leaders have been jailed because they would not conform to German edicts.

Youth Caught As Car Upsets After Exciting 25-Mile Chase

A thrilling 25-mile chase over slippery roads yesterday ended in the arrest of a Cleveland Heights youth by a Mansfield state highway patrolman after the stolen car driven by the boy overturned on a curve near Lodi.

No persons were reported injured in traffic accidents in the Mansfield area over the week-end. However, seven died in auto crashes elsewhere in the state. City police and state highway patrolmen reported seven collisions resulting only in property damage.

Still ignoring pleas for conservative driving at least 12 drivers were arrested for speeding over the week-end, the majority being arrested on U. S. Route 42, north of Mansfield. Several others were arrested for other traffic violations.

William Sattelmeyer, jr., 19, of Cleveland Heights was in the custody of the Bellefontaine police today and charged with auto theft after his capture yesterday morning by State Highway Patrolman Robert I. Taflinger.

Pursued from south of Ashland to the outskirts of Lodi on U. S. Route 42, Sattelmyer's attempt to escape was cut short when the car failed to make a curve and overturned.

Who Wants Autumn Weather When It's Still Only August?

The weatherman, who has been kept in the background by war censorship, slipped a fall preview over on Mansfielders today and most of them weren't very enthusiastic about it.

They went into their closets for more blankets last night and got out their coats this morning as the mercury went down to 49 degrees, one of the lowest marks recorded in the state.

Clouds covered the sun yesterday and held the mercury down to 72 degrees, and at noon today it was only 63 although the sun was in the open again.

The weatherman said it will continue "quite cool today and tonight." The cool wave followed storms Saturday night which left heavy damage along the southern shores of Lake Erie and Lake Michigan.

NEW LONDONER SURVIVES AS BOMBER FALLS

Thrown Clear of Wreckage as 6 Companions Die; 3 Other Accidents Listed.

A 23-year-old New London army flier was listed today as the only survivor of four scattered airplane accidents reported by army and navy authorities to have killed 25 officers and men.

He is Second Lieut. Richard H. Farnsworth, son of Mr. and Mrs. Levi Farnsworth of New London, who left early today for Bogalusa, La., upon learning that their son had suffered critical internal and skull injuries in a crash which killed six companions.

Farnsworth was the pilot of a medium bomber from Harding field which crashed five miles south of Bogalusa late yesterday.

Malcolm Wallace, a farmer, told army authorities he saw the plane explode, burst into flames and cut a long swatch through a pine forest before the bomber fell on his farm.

Farnsworth and his co-pilot, Second Lieut. William L. Kelley, 25, Lamoni, Ia., were thrown clear of the wreckage which covered the bodies of five companions. Kelley was dead upon arrival at the Bogalusa hospital and Farnsworth is in "critical" condition.

Army and navy authorities were also investigating three other plane crashes which killed 19 more men.

The navy said 11 men were known to have been aboard a navy patrol plane that crashed last night in a field near Dahlgren, Va., and that there may have been a 12th victim.

Second biggest disaster was the crash of an army flying fortress bomber in the southern New Mexico mountains 20 miles northwest of Las Cruces in which seven were killed and two others injured in parachute landings.

In the third accident, Second Lieut. Melvin F. Lacey, 21, of Sacramento, Cal., was killed when

German Troops Pouring Across Don River Bend

Timoshenko Hurls Reinforcements Into Bloody Fighting On East Bank of Stream; Soviets Continue To Fall Back In Caucasus.

(By International News Service)

MOSCOW—The battle for Stalingrad began in earnest today as German troops and tanks poured across the Don southeast of Kletskaya and northeast of Kotelnikovo.

Violent, bloody fighting was in progress on the east bank of the river where it makes its big loop before the metropolis on the Volga.

Marshal Semyon Timoshenko, Russia's wiliest military strategist, threw reinforcements into the tremendous battle with a prodigal hand, but there was no gainsaying the fact that the Nazis continued to push forward—at teriffic cost to themselves.

The chief break-through the Russian defenses was southeast of Kletskaya, but northeast of Kotelnikovo the Germans drove another wedge into stubbornly retreating Soviet forces.

A vast numerical superiority in manpower, tanks and planes appeared to have decided the immediate issue.

The Soviets defended the river crossing to the last gasp and fell back only when the Germans attacked with overwhelming strength.

The situation continued bleak in the Caucasus. The Red army was fighting a stubborn defensive battle south of Krasnodar but the threat to the great Black Sea port and naval base of Novorossisk was increasing hourly.

There was no indication that the enemy drive had been slowed since Nazi forces crossed the Kuban river.

The Red army also fell back once again deep in the foothills of the Caucasian mountains around Piatogorsk, where German dive-bombers continued their incessant pounding of Soviet lines.

Contrary to expectations, the Germans are using tanks in the mountainous country south of the Kuban river and around Piatogorsk.

Although German forces were admitted to have driven across the Don and pushed deeper into the defenses of the vital Volga river industrial capital, Russian armies still held positions on the west bank of the river within the elbow of the Don.

The official Soviet communique today reported heavy fighting in the Don bend southeast of Kletskaya where the Nazis are making progress in thrusting the northern arms of an encircling pincers closer and closer to Stalingrad.

On the sector south of the Don and northeast of the rail town of Kotelnikovo Moscow admitted that a considerable German tank force had driven a wedge into the BIGGEST: Giant U. S. Convoy Reaches Britain With Troops

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—The arrival of still another American convoy—the greatest yet—with more thousands of fighting-fit United States troops stirred British observers anew today to speculation on a second front.

The size of the convoy, so large that its laden troopships and transports scattered to many British ports to unload men and weapons now dispersed among waiting American bases, accounted only partly for the predictions of second front possibilities.

Britons noted also the preparedness of the Americans for absorbing reinforcements, the frontline caliber of the men sent to this war theater, the material which accompanied them, the variety of branches they represented, the emphasis on air strength in both men and supplies and the psychological moment of their arrival.

The announcement that the vast sea train had disgorged new fighting strength on British soil came while London papers were filled with comment analyzing Prime Minister Churchill's recent mission to Moscow and calling last week's battle of Dieppe only a portent of things to come.

Because of 24-hour-a-day work setting up huge bases in Britain, the Americans now are able to absorb ground forces at a greatly accelerated pace and the striking power of the air force, it was pointed out, can be doubled and redoubled quickly now that the months of preliminary preparation are behind it.

The eagerness of the new United States troops for action and their smart, well-drilled ap-

CAPTURE: Chinese Seize Key City During Counter Offensive

CHUNGKING—(INS)—Chinese forces at dawn yesterday captured the important city of Linchuan, former Japanese headquarters in central Kiangsi province, it was announced officially today.

It was reported earlier that the Chinese counter-offensive had recaptured two more cities along the important Hangchow-Nanchang railway.

Fierce Chinese assaults now have blasted Japanese control of this vital line.

Both Yingtang, in eastern Kiangsi province, and Yukiang on the Kwangsin river have fallen as the Japanese retreat toward the Chekiang coast continued.

The hard-hitting Chinese, recapturing objective after objective that fell to the Japanese early in the summer when the enemy opened its Chekiang-Kiangsi offensive, were pushing closer to Chuhsien, in Chekiang province, site of one of the bloodiest battles of the summer.

The central Chinese news agency said that the Chinese army reoccupied Kiangshan, in Chekiang province, Sunday morning, thus putting them within 20 miles of Chuhsien.

Chuhsien was one of the chief Nipponese objectives, because of its strategic location as a possible springboard for aerial attacks against the Japanese mainland.

In addition to Yukiang and Yingtang, the Chinese have recaptured Yushan, almost on the Chekiang border; Yingtang, in Kiangsi province, 75 miles southeast of Nanchang; Kweiki, Shangjao and Kwangfeng, all important railroad cities.

As the counter-offensive in the Kiangsi-Chekiang area gained momentum, Generalissimo Chiang sent a message to his troops in India, telling them to avoid mixing into the Indian internal disturbances, brought to a head by the All-India congress party's demand for immediate freedom from Britain.

BROADWAY

—By Dorothy Kilgallen

(Note: Inextricably woven into the pattern of Broadway is Walter O'Keefe, "The Man on the Flying Trapeze." He's a gay lad and a bright lad, and here he reminisces about Yesterday on Broadway.—D. K.)

Walter O'Keefe Says—

There have been a lot of changes in the Broadway scene since Mike O'Keefe's oldest boy, Walter, first stepped into those halls of light, laughter and larceny that we know today as night clubs.

Seventeen years ago this summer, working in the Texas Guinan Club, they rated me one step above a bus-boy. It was a grave injustice—to the bus-boy. I was a ukelele player (whatever became of ukeleles?) and only the tender game laws of New York State saved me from destruction. Charlie Butterworth, a campus colleague from Notre Dame, was my room-mate. Broadway hadn't discovered Charlie and Charlie hadn't discovered vitamin tablets.

Those were the years so aptly described by someone as "the era of wonderful nonsense." Eventually Billy Rose may run short of decades to glorify, and when he does I hope he decides to grow nostalgic for those wacky, garish years leading up to the crash.

Cover charges were high, but nobody cared. The minimum charge idea was an obscure termite and nobody suspected that it would, before long, revolutionize the whole nightclub foundation.

Looking over the shoulder of any musician to see what he was playing, you would have found he was doing a medley of "Margie" and Goldman-Sachs, because invariably the closing Wall Street prices would be propped up there before him so that music would not get his mind off his business.

Aimee Semple MacPherson's autobiography was running serially in the now extinct Graphic. Simultaneously, the tabloid also ran the life story of Texas Guinan. The Graphic's promotion department arranged to have Mrs. MacPherson visit Tex at her cafe. Aimee spoke and the customers cheered and then Tex said "Tomorrow, Aimee, I'll go down to YOUR place to watch you perform." The following evening Texas made an entrance at Aimee's temporary tabernacle on Thirty-Third street, looking like a merger between Cartier's and the ermine industry. The historic event turned into a clambake for autograph seekers who mobbed Texas.

Some of the original cast of the oldtime comedy are still with us, but the roles they play have been rewritten almost beyond recognition.

Mark Hellinger was an apple-cheeked, starry-eyed bundle of eagerness, studying to be a sophisticate — and burning the midnight oil in laboratory work. Mark, I know, never imagined he would one day be the proud owner of a production unit, a swimming pool and an ulcer.

Sherman Billingsley, Public Boniface Number One, was heartbroken that he hadn't struck oil in his native Oklahoma. Little did he realize he was destined to bring in the biggest gusher of them all with a fifty-foot frontage on the East Side of Manhattan, and that the Stork club would become practically the Fifty-Third street branch of the United States mint.

Established hoofers laughed derisively at two kids who were making coffee and cake money doing that quaint old dance known as the Charleston. Anybody who knew anything about dancing, the experts argued, could tell in a minute that the Charleston was simply a freakish fad. Its popularity would die, the experts insisted, and when the Charleston was forgotten, the two kids would be has-beens. I couldn't possibly be expected to remember the names of the established hoofers, but I do remember that the Charleston dancers were Georgie Raft (at the Guinan club) and Joan Crawford—then Lucille Lesueur—at the Club Richman.

Those were the days. I was a boy from Connecticut, and I clung tenaciously to my tiny place in the big city scene. I would have laughed at anyone who predicted that, in 1942, Broadway would be just work, not glamor, to me. Now, no matter how late the hour or how busy the schedule, I leave Broadway when my working day is through. I am a Connecticut farmer, agitating for the farm bloc. It's a strange sensation these days to walk out onto a nightclub floor at three in the morning to do a show and realize that one of my chickens back home on the farm is in the throes of laying an egg at the very same time. (Laying an egg too—often as not, I should say)!

HOLLYWOOD

—By Robbin Coons

HOLLYWOOD — Before long there ought to be a clarification of the position of actors in this war. The signposts point to it, and it's about time.

Coons

One of the signs is the frequency with which actors in military service are shipped back here to make or aid in making pictures for the government. So far they have been mainly training films or short subjects with a war message. James Stewart is here now and again. Ronald Reagan, now of the air corps, has been stationed here. Burgess Meredith has been sent to Hollywood from camp on a film job. They are no longer film stars drawing film pay. They're in the army now.

The film version of Irving Berlin's "This Is the Army" will have, like the stage show, an all-army cast, including movie stars in uniform. This may or may not be a straw in the wind.

But what is coming, I believe, is an open admission that many actors are more valuable to their country as actors than in any other capacity, in or out of uniform. The admission needs to be made along with a reiteration of Hollywood's status as an essential industry.

It seems to me that this essential classification—not asked by Hollywood but bestowed by the government — has been played down by the movie industry in its eagerness to avoid any public suspicion that its people were hiding behind it.

The government has a list of ideas it wants Hollywood to put across — ideas important to the war effort. Let the public answer: will a popular actor be more valuable in some field of active service or drawing in millions of Americans to see him put across a war message?

There are many actors who, sensitive about their position, feel sincerely that to join up would be the easiest thing to do—easiest but not the most useful. There are actors, over the usual military ages but as keen as the next man to do a good war job, who privately suffer the fear of public misunderstanding as they do their usual movie jobs in addition to answering the multiple war activities demands on them.

Those agonizings will be ended, as they should, when there is a clear-cut statement of the actor's best service in this war. Perhaps it will make the boys feel better if they are given uniforms and camp assignments between government feature assignments, and it might well come to this.

But if anyone doubts that pictures are important, let him consider England where they keep on making movies—with actors on furlough from the fronts — under bombs.

PLAN TO USE HOUSEWIVES AS FOOD WARDENS

U. S. Officials Say Women To Deliver Communiques on Shortages.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The agriculture department today disclosed that "housewife food wardens" will carry government meat rationing and anti-inflation plans to the civilian consumers of the nation.

The department said that the food warden scheme is a part of the "block leader" plan being worked out in cooperation with the federal security administration.

The plan would put a housewife leader on every city block in the nation, charged with circulating government "food communiques" among her neighbors.

Department officials revealed that the plan has already been put into effect "on a test basis" in three cities.

"Preliminary reports from these cities," they said, "show that the program has been very effective in channelling consumer demand away from shortage commodities and toward products which show surpluses."

These officials explained that in two of the cities consumer demand for meat exceeded supply and threatened to blow the top from price administration meat ceilings.

A communique advocating cheese substitutes for meat was circulated, they said, and results show that meat demand fell off and OPA ceilings were able to hold.

Agriculture authorities revealed that the three cities where tests of the plan have been carried out are Syracure, N. Y.; Tampa, Fla., and Berkeley, Cal.

Agriculture department officials believe that the "block leader" plan will also tend to curb the rising prices of non-ceiling foods, by voluntary consumer self rationing.

MORE JOBS OPEN

Civil Service Workers Needed In War Effort, Says Appeal.

Government jobs for hundreds of men and women are opening under civil service as America hammers away to beat the Axis.

They are located at Pearl Harbor, at navy yards, proving grounds and air depots throughout the country, behind typewriters in Washington, in aircraft factories at Dayton and Fairfield, O., and in inspection plants at Jeffersonville, Ind.

Urgent calls for aircraft mechanics, foundry furnacemen, instrument makers, radio mechanics, aviation electricians, and dozens of other workmen needed at Pearl Harbor are being issued by the civil service commission.

Full particulars for positions of this kind may be obtained from the local civil service commission office in the Mansfield postoffice building.

LABOR LEADER FACES FIGHT

Donnelly Opposed For First Time in 28 Years as Union Secretary.

(By United Press)

COLUMBUS — At the age of 75, Thomas J. Donnelly, secretary-treasurer of the Ohio State Federation of Labor, today faced the hardest fight of his half-century of union activity as the federation's largest convention in history opened.

For the first time in his 28 years in office, Donnelly will be opposed for re-election to another three-year term. Philip Hannah, 37-year-old Cleveland union official, also is a candidate for the post.

The convention, believed to be one of the most important in the 58-year history of the federation, will extend through Friday and possibly Saturday. It will be devoted principally to consideration of resolutions and election of two new vice presidents and a secretary-treasurer.

The Donnelly-Hannah battle was expected to bring out a record number of between 500 and 600 delegates. As delegates assembled it still was uncertain whether Hannah would force his candidacy if it meant a convention split.

Efforts of the American Federation of Labor and the Congress of Industrial Organizations to plan a national labor unity peace program is expected to be reflected in resolutions considered. Resolutions will be accepted until Thursday noon.

There is also considerable support for a move to employ the federation president on a full-time, full-pay basis, federation officials said.

Michael J. Lyden of Youngstown, federation president since 1935, will be a candidate for re-election.

NEW YORK GOP JUBILANT AS IT PREPARES TO NOMINATE DEWEY

(By United Press)

SARATOGA SPRINGS, N. Y.—New York state Republicans, conscious of their best opportunity in 20 years to take over the state government from the Democrats, met in convention today to nominate the former racket-busting prosecutor Thomas E. Dewey as their gubernatorial candidate.

As was the case at the Democratic convention last week, leaders were looking ahead to the presidential race in 1944 and the name of Wendell L. Willkie figured in an incident among leaders which accumulated a little heat for a time.

Some wanted the convention to pass a resolution praising Willkie. Anti-Willkie Republicans and Dewey men who envisage their man as the Republican presidential candidate, objected, fearing it would be construed as an endorsement of Willkie for 1944.

As a result the convention will pass a resolution wishing him "God speed and success on his trip to Russia and the Near East as President Roosevelt's special envoy.

But the Republicans were jubilant, figuring that their opposition, which has been in a majority in all state elections since 1920, would be divided in November between Attorney General John J. Bennett, the Democratic candidate, and Dean Alfange, the American Labor party man, making Dewey a shoo-in.

The Republicans, however, would have been happier, had the American Labor party nominated a stronger candidate than Alfange who is virtually unknown upstate and has no large following in New York City.

O. S. R. Inmates Walk Away From Dairy Farm Sunday.

Two more Ohio State reformatory inmates escaped last night, bringing the total number of escapes for the past week to five. Two other escapees surrendered to Columbus police last week, however.

Rife was admitted from Lucas county for juvenile delinquency on Aug. 29, 1941, to serve until he becomes of age. Booss was admitted from Hamilton county on Aug. 29, 1941, to serve from 5 to 30 years for burglary.

"Why do you snap pictures of people you don't know?"

Possibility that a carrier pigeon which is enjoying a "rest camp" haven at the home of Mrs. Leona Wright Wachtel, 50 South Adams street, is a messenger of the U. S. Army Signal corps, is entertained by some who have studied its leg band markings "253" and "Aug. 42—320." The pigeon arrived several days ago and after being revived was taken to the police station for possible identification. When freed by patrolmen, the bird returned to the Wachtel home where it is enjoying the company of another pigeon—apparently a neighborhood character.

A letter received here from Capt. Frank R. Maxwell, Mansfield physician now with the Army Medical corps in Hawaii, bears further proof of the old saying, "It's a small world after all." In his letter Capt. Maxwell told how he met Louis Kochheiser, a soldier from Bellville, at his base there. The two got together when young Kochheiser, suffering from a minor sore throat, happened to be assigned to Maxwell for treatment.

Mansfielders attending the summer conference of the League of Ohio Sportsmen yesterday at the Mansfield-Leland hotel agreed with a delegate from northeastern Ohio who said "rabbits are getting smart and moving into cities where they can't be shot by hunters." The same situation was reported in Mansfield where rabbits are frequently seen in thickly populated sections and are said to be damaging gardens and small trees.

Four tiny kittens, home address unknown, took over the entrance way of General hospital this morning and were on the way to disrupting ordinary office routine inside the building. When visitors entered the front door, the kittens, playing on the steps in the sun, would steal into the waiting room behind them. The most daring of the quartet made it upstairs into an office before finally being discovered and run to earth behind an office desk.

NELSON SET TO GET ARMS PLAN IN FOCUS

Says Output of Planes, Guns, Tanks and Ships To Be Put In Proper Proportion.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — War Production Chief Donald M. Nelson today began his program of whipping the nation's booming munitions production program into a more evenly-balanced order.

Having reasserted his authority as production czar, Nelson admitted the current $50,000,000,000 a year enterprise was "unbalanced," and progress has been uneven, and declared the time has come to straighten it out.

After Pearl Harbor, the country set out to get war weapons hand-over-fist, Nelson said. It is getting them. The flow is now three and one-half times as great. But the time has come to set the output of planes, tanks, guns and ships in proper proportion.

The program must be balanced, he said. There must not be too much of one item and not enough of another.

"The production efforts of England, the United States, Canada and Australia all must be moulded into one pattern and fitted together so as to produce the maximum impact upon the enemy," Nelson explained.

The WPB chief cited the shipbuilding program as a case in point. At the outset, he said, "we purposely put more steel into shipbuilding than we had a right to in order to push ship production to the limit. Now," he said, "we have to back up on steel plate and get things in balance."

In bringing the mushrooming munitions program into focus, Nelson was understood to be planning several specific actions. Among them were:

1. Tightening up on "scheduling."

2. Recapturing some authority previously delegated to the armed services to make certain that priorities are awarded properly and that the various war needs are filled in the order of their importance and in proper proportion.

3. Weeding out of incompetents within the war production board organization itself.

Pride Shines In Tears Of Flier's 19-Year-Old Widow

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Widowed by a Nazi warplane shell, pride shone through the tears of Lieut. Don Walter's 19-year-old bride today.

The former Helen Calebaugh learned last night that her aviator-husband kept a rendezvous with death high above the North sea Friday in a fierce aerial battle.

He was co-pilot of a United States flying fortress that landed safely in England after being crippled in high-altitude combat.

Lieut. Ewart Sconiers of De Funiak Springs, Fla., a bombardier who "washed out of flying school," guided Walter's wounded war bird to its home base. A 20 mm. shell killed the Ohioan.

Only last Tuesday Mrs. Walter and friends celebrated the 22-year-old flier's participation in a raid on Rouen, France.

"When I heard that one of the fliers was from Painesville," she said, "I knew it was Don."

The couple married last March after having met at Ohio State university.

MANSFIELD, OHIO, MONDAY, AUGUST 24, 1942.

What Your Dimes and Dollars Do

HAVE you sometimes wondered what good it did for you to invest dimes and dollars in War Savings Stamps and Bonds, or how it could be any help to turn in small quantities of scrap metal, old rubber or fats from the kitchen?

You were given the answer last week when American fliers joined in the Commando raid at Dieppe and when the Marines made successful landings in the Solomon islands. The increasing power in China, the gaining strength in Egypt, the heightened tempo of war production in American factories, the food and supplies required for this nation's fighting forces—all of these things hinge on maintaining a steady flow of dimes and dollars from you—and millions like you—who are contributing, to the extent of ability, toward the national war effort.

As you are thrilled by reading of successful action by the United Nations in Europe, the Far East, or wherever it may be, you will be further gratified by realization that you were represented there by the dimes and dollars that you invested—and will continue to invest—in War Savings Stamps and Bonds.

A war cannot be successfully fought without high cost in money and the Dieppe raid—and others like it—would have been impossible except for preliminary outlay of thousands upon thousands of dollars for intensive training of participants, for their transportation far from home, and for guarding the seas against enemy attack while men and supplies were being transported.

Part of this cost is paid in taxes but a large share must be paid by voluntary investment in War Savings Stamps and Bonds. Without the dimes and dollars of those who remain at home American men and materials could not carry on the fight around the world in ways that will be necessary to achieve victory.

Keep on buying War Savings Stamps and Bonds—more and more of them—and never less than 10 per cent of income.

Tightening Up On Speeders

MOTORISTS who are arrested for exceeding the legal speed limit in Mansfield are no longer justified in complaining about it, or charging discrimination.

The number of arrests now being made for speeding should be sufficient warning to other drivers that more attention is being given to this offense and that traffic officers are on the alert to detect speeders and stop speeding on city streets.

Nor is it a secret that 35 miles an hour is the maximum speed permissible on Mansfield streets, and this only on streets that are a part of federal and state highways, with 25 miles an hour as the maximum on other streets, and a further reduction to 20 miles an hour in school zones and specified business districts.

While police inclination has been to disregard slight infractions of legal speed limits it is now safe to assume that anything in excess of 40 miles an hour in 35-mile zones will subject the offender to arrest and penalty, as 40 miles is the advised speed limit for all driving, as a part of the rubber conservation campaign.

With near approach of school re-opening, this is an appropriate time for increased emphasis on safe driving and the habit of keeping within legal speed is an important factor in reducing traffic accidents and fatalities.

Saving for Home Ownership

HIGHEST home ownership percentage in the country is in Tacoma, Wash., which has 57.8 per cent owner occupancy. Its debt-free home ownership is 56.1 per cent as against 43.9 per cent average for the country.

Galveston, Tex., has the most debt-free homes in the country—the percentage is 72.1.

The lowest percentage of owned homes occupied by their owners is in the very large cities, such as New York and Chicago, where apartment-dwelling is favored.

The United States Savings and Loan league points out that there is a direct relationship between savings habits, as shown by bank balances, and home ownership. The cities where there is a high degree of home ownership also show higher savings per capita than the cities where most people rent shelter.

There will probably always be people who are obliged to live in rented houses and apartments, or prefer to do so, but it is evident that greater security lies with those who can buy their own homes and live in them. Both financial and spiritual stability seem to go with home ownership.

Evidence of Rail Prosperity

THERE has been a growing demand for railroad bonds lately, with such securities rising in value. This is not speculative, but a natural result of the prosperity returning to the railroads after a long period of poverty. Roads that have not made money for decades are paying dividends now, as the immense demand for rail transportation presses them all into service.

An interesting effect of this prosperity wave has been the suggestion in Wall Street that congress might give the railroads permission to use surplus earnings for buying up their own bonds. There would doubtless be quite an argument about that. It would seem somewhat like personal income tax payers using all their abnormal war profits to pay their own personal debts instead of divvying with the government.

Time-Wasting Correspondence

DONALD NELSON is trying to simplify record keeping and reduce unnecessary letter writing. In some ways this is the biggest job that even he has undertaken. He could certainly sympathize with the Duke of Wellington, the victor of Waterloo, who wrote fervently: "If I attempted to answer the mass of futile correspondence that surrounds me, I should be debarred from all serious business of campaigning." General Auchinleck, British commander-in-chief in the Near East, was so impressed by this utterance that he sent a copy of it to all officers at his headquarters.

Many people could profit by thinking over this remark of the Duke of Wellington.

Unheard remark: "I think it was all right for President Roosevelt to mix up in New York politics—that's much more important than winning the war."

ALL QUIET ON THE WESTERN FRONT

Hitler Losing Popularity, Maybe

—By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON — Hints that Herr Hitler isn't as popular as he was, right in Germany, have been afloat recently in the United Nations' various capitals. Washington among 'em, and they're beginning to be given some little attention.

Of course they're vague and don't come directly from Reich sources, but from the few remaining neutral European countries, which probably have to rely largely upon more or less unreliable rumors, or are smuggled out from Germanly overrun territory. Nevertheless the Nazis themselves leak, doubtless unintentionally, a bit of information that sounds rather confirmatory of the gossip referred to.

One item, vouched for by Berlin, as a warning, is to the effect that death is decreed in advance as a penalty for the slightest help given to Axis army deserters. All border stations and ports, it's stated, are searched minutely. Now, if desertion progresses at such a rate as to require these drastic precautions, isn't it a fair conclusion that there must be quite a lot of it? The epidemic's described as particularly prevalent in East Prussia. That's just where it might have been looked for. It's a tolerably convenient area to escape from, out of Germany.

Narcotics Climbing.

Then there's the whole Reich's civilian morale! It that going flooey?

It isn't a very favorable symptom if folk are taking to narcotics, as represented the other day in an article in a Zurich medical publication. The author, an expert on the subject, surmises that desire for relief from the worry of air raids is responsible for what he calls the "unbearable increase" in drug addiction.

However, another explanation's offered.

It may be remembered that, some weeks ago, the Berlin government as a rationing measure, cut down on drinks, especially beer, almost to zero. It occurred to me right then, and I mentioned it, that I didn't believe the average German would survive long with his beer abolished. The theory is that he's taking to opium and morphine as substitutes.

The story's current that Adolf has pledged himself to Dicator Franco of Spain for a grab of Portugal by the latter. If it's true, it can't but imply that the Fuehrer's making a bid for another ally, and the best guess is that he wouldn't make the offer unless he needed to.

Franco, as a matter of fact, is said to be mobilizing his forces apparently for some sort of expedition.

And it's official that the Portuguese are doing as much military and naval concentrating as their diminutive resources are capable of.

Nobody questions that a unified Spain could lick Portugal in short order. Spain isn't unified, though. Dictator Franco had a hard civil war to fight to establish himself, and the betting is that the beaten element will rebel against him at the first opportunity.

Brazil Would Help.

Incidentally, there's a Western hemispherical angle to the Spanish-Portuguese situation. Brazil, speaking generally, is as Portuguese as its parent land.

Just how the Spanish part of Latin America would react to that kind of friction is a problem to puzzle any internationalists.

Getting back strictly to Germany—

Herr Goebbels' yowls to his countrymen to stand the gaff unflinchingly are causing considerable wondering if they aren't doing a certain amount of flinching.

Among other things, Nazi persecution of religion is being increasingly publicized.

Listen World!

Troublesome 'Bugs'

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

QUEER THING—isn't it—that you can't get along? Sometimes, lately, you've begun to feel that Fate is picking on you . . . stacking the cards against you, just for spite. Else why should you lose one friend after another—one job after another? Why should everyone seem to feel a little uncomfortable when you're around?

'Tisn't that you don't try to make good. You're honest and skillful. You work hard—ten times as hard as some of the people you know. You're careful and tidy—maybe even fussy. You're unselfish—willing to show other folks how to do their job better. Then why aren't they grateful? Why don't the other housewives in the block—or the other girls in the office—or the other fellows on the assembly line—share their fun with you? Why doesn't your husband appreciate you—or the Boss give you a raise? Daily you see greenhorns promoted over your head—stupid, frivolous workers who aren't half as capable as you. What have they got that you haven't? Why do they get the breaks when you don't? What's the answer.

The answer's plain—plain to everyone but you, partner. It's simply this—

You can't get along—you don't get ahead—because you've never worked the "bugs" out of your system.

Now wait! Cool off before you holler! I'm not insulting you—I don't mean the usual kind of "bugs"—fleas and spiders, lice and ticks. I'm referring to something that spoils more lives and wastes more fine effort than any insect that ever was hatched . . . the "bugs" in human nature.

Ever see the auto experts give a work-out to a new car model? Funny thing about new cars—they're all different. They may be jake in theory . . . like as peas and slick as silk when they leave the assembly line. But somehow, somewhere, there's a hitch in them. Some hidden, unsuspecting flaw that will spell grief unless it's eliminated. That's the reason why each one is given plenty of tests to "get the bugs out of its system," for until its particular and peculiar quirks are eliminated it can't meet the standard—it can't fill the job.

Ever stop to figure, partner, that we human folk have bugs just like cars . . . little hidden quirks and tangles that ball up our action too? Bugs that keep us on the sidelines, try as we may to get into the Big Game. Unrecognized flaws that spoil our record even though, in many ways, we deliver the goods.

Bugs of fussiness . . . peevishness . . . laziness and conceit. Bugs of self-pity and suspicion. We all have them. Sometimes the wisest and strongest of us have the most of them. And of all the handicaps which block our human progress and happiness, such bugs are the worst. You can do a fine job in this world if you've lost a leg or an arm or an ear. You can be beloved if you've never been beyond the third grade, and a blessing to everyone who seeks your aid. But, though you have the brain of a genius, you will be a lonely, pesty flop unless and until you "work the bugs out of your system."

FOR THE GREATEST TEST OF ANY HUMAN BEING IS HIS ABILITY TO GET ALONG WITH THE REST OF HIS KIND. THE NOBLEST CONTRIBUTION WE CAN POSSIBLY MAKE DURING THIS LIFE IS NOT MATERIAL SERVICE, HOWEVER SKILLFUL IT MAY BE, BUT THE SIMPLE GIFT OF A FRIENDLY AND FLEXIBLE SPIRIT.

So, if you're not getting along, here's a hint. Stop pinning wreaths on yourself or spilling tears over yourself or blaming the other fellow. Just do a little self-analysis . . . and get the bugs out of your own system.

P. S. Golly, how I wish I could follow my own advice. Bugs? I've got 'em in hives.

Morgenthau, Obedient to F. D. R., Soft-Pedals Own Economic Views

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON—In many respects Henry Morgenthau, jr., has one of the most surprising combinations of economic views in the federal administration. To understand how amazing the man is, it is necessary to consider a few basic factors, the most important of which is his absolute devotion and slavish obedience to President Roosevelt.

Morgenthau and Harold L. Ickes have the faculty of sounding off in public print, or before committees, most sensationally, and then quickly coming to heel when the president frowns. No matter what either thinks, or has said, it is the will of the president which will guide their actions.

Both like their jobs—could not be pried loose from them—and hence never risk the break which would restore them to private circulation. But right there the similarity ends. Ickes generally gets out of step on the radical side. Even then he never thinks he is taking a chance. He just shoots off on something he thinks the president would approve because he knows other views of the president which he thinks add up to this.

But often Harold's arithmetic is faulty on this. Or perhaps it's just because one can never be sure of determining what the president's view will be on any given subject by pursuing any mathematical formula.

WHEN Morganthau gets out of step it is usually on the conservative side. His best friends say that he would rather be a conservative, is only the president would approve. This is just a theory, though accepted by people who not only know him well, but have studied his actions. It could never grow out of his private conversations. They run to favoring social service, and that sort of thing, growing out of his wife's championship of most of Mrs. Roosevelt's hobbies.

Of all his public utterances, one on the conservative side with respect to which he has never been publicly spanked, and never been made to retract, relates to silver. Morgenthau is against the government silver policy, and has been since its inception. He saw no point in trying to bid up the world price to the $1.29 an ounce the silver fanatics wanted. He watched the experiment fail, at a cost of hundreds of millions to the treasury, and to the enormous profit of foreign speculators. The 50 per cent special tax on silver profits took care of the domestic speculators.

But he has also opposed the subsidy to domestically produced silver, defying the entire western silver bloc in congress, and has never had to backtrack.

MAYBE the president didn't mind the silver senators finding out that it would not be much of a trick for the administration to give them the lemon if they wandered off the reservation on other matters!

But here is Morgenthau now, crying to congress for stiffer taxes on the war producing corporations, urging proposals which senators and representatives think much too harsh, and opposing a sales tax which most of the economists think is the right answer for the emergency.

Congress is set to stand firm against any pressure to boost the corporation and personal income taxes, but it certainly is NOT set to interfere with the silver subsidy.

Watching Trends

—By JACK STINNETT

WASHINGTON—Not even in fiction have there been better crime and mystery stories written about this war than in the routine reports of the various investigative government bureaus.

To deal completely with a small percentage of them here would be a physical impossibility, but when Elmer L. Irey, coordinator of the treasury department's investigating agencies, made a report to Secretary Morgenthau the other day, he set up a picture that's worth looking at.

The war, it seems, has caused the counterfeiters and dope peddlers to shift bases of operations to Mexico. The far-flung borders of the United States now are guarded as closely out as in. Smuggling has become a two-edged sword. Our enemies are as eager to get information and strategic materials out as they are to get propaganda, diamonds, explosives and "funny money" in.

WAR stamp and bond counterfeiters have mushroomed. So have the moonshiners (increased federal taxes on liquor give them a greater margin of profit) but the illicit distillers are running into trouble — priorities — they can't get the sugar and they can't get the copper and other metals for the stills.

Striking before the war stamp counterfeiters could start trading, the Secret Service seized $52,500 worth of the stamps in New York, sent six men to prison for from 8 to 10 years. Working with Canadian officers, they smashed on international ring of gold thieves and smugglers who in three years had bought "high graded" (stolen) nuggets from Canadian mines and smuggled them into the United States to the tune of $3,000,000.

Thanks to the Secret Service "Know Your Money" campaign, the first six months of war found it rough going for the counterfeiters, making it less likely that enemy nations can get away here with financing fifth column activities and sabotage with counterfeit money as they did in many of the conquered nations.

THE "good neighbor policy" was called into play for Treasury's greatest counterfeiting haul. Working with Mexican police and with several of its own investigating agencies cooperating, the Treasury captured an internationally known counterfeiter in Mexico City. His plant was complete, agents said, for the manufacture of $50 and $100 U. S. notes, as well as Mexican currency.

The Customs Bureau, working with Office of Exports, the Board of Economic Warfare and Treasury's foreign funds control division, blocked numerous attempts to smuggle out of the country industrial diamonds, machine tools, platinum and other war necessary metals.

Two big narcotic smuggling rings were broken up on the Mexican border—one in California, one in Arizona. Eighteen persons were arrested, eight of them said to be remnants of the old "Dutch" Schultz and "Lucky" Luciano mobs in New York.

The 100 investigators of foreign funds control made 2,000 investigations, the most spectacular of which was the discovery of $10,000,000 in assets belonging to fugitive Henry Blackmer of Teapot Dome fame.

Internal revenue did its share of "war work," too, obtaining prosecutions in 11 income tax violations and recovering $38,000,000 for the war chest in taxes and penalties.

Health and Diet

Amazing Triumph Over Diphtheria.

—By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

IF ANYONE had told me 40 years ago that at the end of that time diphtheria would be wiped out in this country by an effort of medical science, I would have refused to believe a word of it. And if I had been further told that this was to be due to the willing cooperation of parents and children for individual vaccination by doctors, boards of health and school doctors, I would have been even more incredulous.

In looking back and thinking this over, I do not know whether to wonder at and admire more the scientific accomplishment or the fact that the public was persuaded to take advantage of it.

The scientific accomplishment is awe inspiring enough. To have taken a disease—one of the most fatal and treacherous of all human dangers, which has killed off the babies and children and youth of the world for thousands of years, for we have records of it since mankind first squatted on the banks of the Nile—and to perfect a method, itself perfectly harmless, by which the introduction of a few drops of fluid under the skin will render an infant protected from the disease for life—that indicates for me the highest form of accomplishment of the human mind.

Education of Public.

But when I reflect back and remember all the cranks who were against "serum" and the anti-vaccinationists of 1902, and consider that by reasonable and gentle persuasion, state boards of health have convinced parents so that in some states 100 per cent of children entering school have had diphtheria prevention, I am not so sure but what that is the greater triumph.

People will swallow any kind of a witch's brew made in a dark back kitchen by an ignorant quack who has never tested it on a single case for this, that, or the other ailment, but will shy away from a product that has been the careful and patient and tested accomplishment of the most exact laboratories because it is a "serum."

I still get some letters from representatives of the dinosaurs protesting against my advocacy of diphtheria, smallpox and typhoid vaccination, but even in my short career in medical journalism they are getting fewer and farther between.

Success of Campaigns.

At any rate there is no question of the accomplishment. In some states the campaign has been so thoroughly carried out that the citizens hardly know what diphtheria is.

In my neighboring city of Kansas City, Kansas, in one of those enlightened states, there have been no deaths from diphtheria for three years. Think of that in a city of two hundred thousand population.

In Massachusetts, a state where there is much population crowding, with tenements and poverty, the actual rate of incidence of diphtheria had dropped in the 10 years between 1930 and 1940 from 101 cases per 100,000 population to 3.

But remember, diphtheria is not killed; it is only sleeping. Eternal vigilance — continued vaccination —is the price of peace.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Old Poems Rest Me.

Old poems rest me. When I say
Them over, softly, peace
Comes with the words. From weariness
I know a dear release.

The poems that I say are those
That I learned long ago
At home, in school; back to the time
Of childhood days they go.

I am refreshed, my heart is eased
And I am comforted
By simple verses quietly
And very simply said.

A Farmer's Diary

Corn on the Cob

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

THE southern tip of our garden is the sweetcorn patch. The corn has grown well this year, and all summer has been a treasure. I marked out the rows, dug shallow holes and dropped in fertilizer, mixed the mellow soil, then followed after with the corn and covered it. Weeds grew abundantly, watered by the plenteous rains, before the corn was visible. Strenuously I hoed quack weeds and all the rising generations of weeds, six different times—the final hoeing when the corn was higher than my knees.

I enjoyed to watch it grow. Often in the morning I have gone down to get a glimpse of the dewy tassels or to touch the fresh pink silks of the ears with my fingers or my face. When a breeze comes by, it is a strange delight to stand near and watch the motion of the animated blades—their rhythmic rustle is all but language. During early evening when dew is forming, I like to catch the odor of the corn. It is not like the fragrance of flowers, but has a deeper basic quality that comes with autumn.

Yesterday I picked the first ears ready for the kettle: I did not need to split the husk and look inside . . . or puncture a row of kernels with my finger nail, to watch the milk sprit out. Anyone who knows his corn can test its quality by pressing the outer surface snugly with his hand.

Sweetcorn at its best in flavor and sweetness is found only when it is pulled, husked rapidly, and then immersed at once in boiling water, with sufficient seasoning.

The four boys and I watched the meal of corn turn a deeper golden color in the kettle, then clapped on the lid. When my wife, presently, jabbed each plump steaming ear with a fork and laid it on the platter, the pleasant odor of the steam whetted our keen appetites.

With bread from the pantry and fresh butter cooled in the spring, our feast was spread. Of course, butter will drip, when it is spread on hot corn. Young mouths are not large enough. Little cheeks and hands and mouths are equally smeared with liquid butter before long—but when the meal is finished, and all are satisfied, including Dad, that washes off.

BATTLE FOR STALINGRAD NEAR CRISIS

Germans Pour Across Don River, Heavy Fight Rages In Bend.

Soviet lines southwest of Stalingrad.

Hard-pressed Red army forces were on the defensive on the other sectors—south and southeast of Krasnodar in the western Caucasus and in the south central Caucasus where the Nazis drove towards Novorossisk on the Black Sea and the Grozny oil fields on the Caspian sea.

The Red armies withdrew slowly and remained intack. They fought stubbornly and inflicted terrific losses on the advancing enemy, reports from the battle front declared.

The battle line was fluid, particularly along the Don where the Soviet forces fought bitterly on both sides of the river.

While it was admitted the Germans had forced crossings of the Don in the Kletskaya area, and had even succeeded in moving tanks to the east bank, communiques declared the enemy spearheads were being wiped out by withering artillery fire.

The tanks the Germans moved over the pontoon bridges were described as "baby tanks" and most of them have been destroyed, according to dispatches reaching Moscow.

But in the Kotelnikovo area the enemy apparently had heavy mechanized and armored equipment in action and the situation was regarded as extremely grave.

The battle for Stalingrad, all reports indicated, was roaring to a climax.

Despite terrible losses Nazi Field Marshal Fedor Von Bock poured men and machines into the struggle to consolidate positions on the east bank of the Don where the river bends to within 40 miles of Stalingrad.

Pontoon bridges were blasted to the bottom of the river time and again with loads of troops and tanks, but still the Germans came ahead in great waves, Moscow dispatches said.

In other areas of the Caucasus the Red armies were on the defensive against overwhelming Nazi hordes. South and southeast of Krasnodar in the western Caucasus the Russians were slowly pushed back on Novorossisk, their biggest remaining naval base on the Black sea.

In the south central Caucasus, on the road to the Grozny oil fields, only 140 miles away, the Red forces were admittedly on the defensive.

But it was significant that while Soviet dispatches acknowledged they were being slowly pushed back on nearly every sector of the Don-Caucasus front, they told of immense Nazi losses.

Communiques of the past 24 hours made specific mention of nearly 20,000 men slain in recent fighting, and scores of tanks and trucks destroyed.

Nazi Who Gave Tip, Dies of Wounds

(By United Press)

Prof. Karl Boehmer, former chief of the foreign press department in the German propaganda ministry, who was disgraced because he gave foreign newsmen advance hints of Germany's intention of attacking Russia, has died of wounds received on the Russian front, the German radio announced today.

Boehmer was 42. It was reported in August, 1941, two months after Germany declared war on Russia, that he had been sent to a concentration camp because he had given newspaper correspondents hints in early June of the impending attack by advising them not to take any trips which would put them away from Berlin June 22, the zero day.

PAY $100 BOND FOR BREAKFAST

Lorain Men Launch 'Home Front' Week Honoring Fighters.

LORAIN—One hundred Lorain men paid nearly $100,000 for breakfast today.

The breakfast, arranged by members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, consisted of bacon and eggs—and war bonds. Each man attending bought at least a $100 bond. Two bought $20,000 worth apiece.

This was the opening event in a "home front" week to be climaxed Sunday with dedication of a shaft in honor of Lorain men and women in the armed forces. Lorain-born Admiral Ernest J. King, commander in chief of the U. S. fleet, is scheduled to lay the cornerstone.

Rev. W. L. Hooper of Columbus was elected president. He had been serving the unexpired term of Theodore Wells of Cambridge, since the latter's death. Rev. Hooper is Ohio chaplain of the Grand Army of the Republic.

He enlisted in the Army Air corps on Nov. 1, 1941, and received his basic training at Ellington Field, Tex.

His parents received a message two weeks ago that he would be sent out of the country for duty in the near future and that if they wanted to visit him, they should do so immediately. They made the trip to Ellington Field at that time but since then had not heard of his transfer to Harding Field.

Farnsworth was home about six weeks ago to spend a 10-day furlough. His father is well-known in New London township.

pearance at the debarkation ports accented the statement of Maj. Gen. Mark Clark, commander of U. S. ground troops in the European zone, that only "crack" outfits were being sent here.

At the same time, the British announced the formation of a new Iran-Iraq command under Gen. Sir Henry Maitland Wilson in the Allies' oil reservoir behind Russia's imperilled Caucasus.

Britons saw the creation of an independent command in that area under the former righthand man of Gen. Sir Archibald P. Wavell as one fruit of Churchill's travels.

By this step, Britain divided the Allied Middle and Near East into three separate commands, giving Wilson military autonomy in a region poorly linked because of bad roads and long set lines either with India or North Africa, the other two command areas.

Chief Air Marshal Sir Arthur William Tedder, with headquarters in Egypt, will retain command of the RAF in all three zones, however.

BIG GUNS ROAR

Nazis, British Exchange Salvoes Across Channel.

LONDON—(INS)—German long-range guns on the French coast fired several salvoes at the Dover area at dawn today and British big batteries immediately replied. After this exchange light gunfire was heard in the channel followed by bursts of pom-poms and machinegun fire.

The engagement lasted 20 minutes. It was believed that British light naval forces were engaging enemy vessels.

Youth Caught As Car Upsets After Exciting 25-Mile Chase

in the crash told state highway patrolmen that he had been hitchhiking home to see his parents and, being unable to obtain a ride, had stolen the car from the driveway of Robert K. Skinner in Bellefontaine.

Patrolman Taflinger began pursuit of Sattlmeyer who was driving excessively fast about five miles south of Ashland. Catching up with the car on the south side of Ashland Taflinger directed the youth to pull over. Instead of complying, the youth speeded up and attempted to lose the patrol car in the alleys of Ashland.

At speeds of never under 80 miles per hour the chase continued on up Route 42 until terminated by the crash. The road was slippery at the time, with intermittent rain falling.

Six speeders arrested by state highway patrolmen all posted $16.30 bond and waived appearance in municipal court today. They were Jacob Miller of Newport, Ky.; Herman W. Gordon, Pomeroy; John W. Doedi, of St. Louis, Mo.; Joseph S. Dudziak of Cleveland; Dallas L. Culler of Seville R. D. 1; and Herbert F. Robinson of Jeromesville R. D. 2.

William Veitinger, 41, of Crestline, was fined $25 and costs in municipal court today for speeding on State Route 181 yesterday. Three other speeders were each fined $10 and costs by Police Judge Harold Andrews of Ashland. They were Ray A. Collins of Cleveland; Earnest A. Beavers of Perrysville and Donald L. Ladd of Akron.

Another Akron motorist, Louis V. Price, 32, forfeited $35 bond after failing to appear on charges of speeding and operatiog a motor vehicle with a temporary permit without a licensed driver in the seat beside him. He was arrested Saturday night on Route 42.

Flavius J. Parks, 50, of Cleveland was fined $10 and costs by Judge Andrews on a charge of illegally crossing a yellow line on U. S. Route 42 Saturday night.

M. E. Zimmerer, Kokomo, Ind., forfeited bond of $16.30 following his arrest yesterday for speeding on Park avenue west. Arthur L. Smith, 593 Coleman road, tomorrow will answer to the charge of speeding Sunday on Sturges avenue.

Mother Tells About Ohioan Who Took Part in Dieppe Raid.

DAYTON —(U.P.)— Sergt. Alex Szima, 22, of Dayton, one of the four American soldiers who fired the firsts shots on European soil in World War II, joined the army two years ago because he wanted to "get into something where there was action," his mother said today.

Mrs. Mary Szima, Hungarian-born restaurant operator and a naturalized citizen, said she was "very happy" about her son's exploits with the American Rangers in their raid on Dieppe but she added she felt sorry for "those other mothers whose sons will never return."

She said that Szima, who is six-feet-two and who weighs 185 pounds, was "such a big fellow" that he can "handle one of those big tanks like it is an ordinary automobile."

The Weather Bureau bought more than 3 million cubic feet of helium for meteorological balloons in 1941.

URGE GREATER POLICE POWER FOR WARDENS

up rules that will protect the natural resources that nature has provided, and conservation work is especially important during wartime when people must vacation nearer home and heavy demands are placed on our natural resources, he asserted.

"I can't imagine any man being a good citizen when he takes the things nature has given him and destroys them so the children of future generations will not have them to enjoy," McSweeney said.

Gov. John W. Bricker, who had been expected to attend the sessions, told Gordon Ensminger, general chairman, Saturday afternoon that the pressure of business would make it impossible to attend.

Forecasting that the amount of small game, including rabbits, pheasants, and squirrels, will be up about 10 per cent this year, Dr. Lawrence Hicks, director of the Ohio State university wildlife research station, said the hunting distribution probably will be bad this fall because of tire rationing and long working hours in war industry.

"Hunting pressure will be much greater near large cities while there may be a game surplus in more isolated areas which will not be frequented so much by hunters," he said.

He predicted that there will be nearly as many hunters this fall as in the past and that a larger amount of game will be taken. Because of the unequal distribution of hunting, he said it would be dangerous to the game supply to relax bag limits on birds and animals.

"There is no serious meat shortage now, but there may be next year, and we should save some game for that emergency," he added.

Dr. Hicks said nearly 10,000 tons of small game is taken every year in Ohio and the meat value of the game "take" is approximately $4,750,000. Hunters and trappers take a total of 7,750,000 birds and animals in the state annually which includes 5,200,000 rabbits, 610,000 pheasants, 85,000 water fowl, and 12,000 partridge, he added.

Sportsmen can help rehabilitate the men in the armed forces at the close of the war by preserving the game supply for them, he asserted.

While there is plenty of ammunition for hunting this year, it may become scarce if the war is a long one, Dr. Hicks continued. He suggested that sportsmen begin saving the shells they use for skeet shooting so they will have a supply of ammunition for game hunting later.

In a discussion of the proposed quail restoration and conservation program in Ohio, Larry Wooddell, former state conservation commissioner, told the group that "the only value of the quail as a song bird is an aesthetic one" and predicted that "the time will come when the quail will be put back on the game bird list."

He said the League would "keep on trying to make it a game bird again although we know we will get a good trimming at the next session of the legislature."

Wooddell said the quail could be increased through game management and then pointed out that the surplus quail supply now is "killed off by cold or starvation in winter when the surplus should be put to good use. It doesn't make any difference to me how this surplus is harvested," he added.

Teaching of conservation practices in the schools was urged by A. W. Short, chief of the Ohio game management bureau, who also spoke on the Sunday afternoon program.

He praised C. I. Kimmel, Richland county game protector, for the county's good showing in the enforcement of game laws.

Also representing the state game management division, E. P. Rinehart said Ohio had more than 9,000 deer last year and he predicted that as the deer population increases the state will have to take steps to deal with it. The state now has no open season on deer.

Some Richland county history relating to forests and saw mills was recalled by O. A. Alderman, chief state forester, who said nearly all of the county was covered by forests in 1800.

Speaking at the Sunday morning session, Brooks Burnside, agricultural agent of the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, outlined that organization's soil and water conservation program.

He asserted that the water table in Ohio is falling at the rate of one foot a year, threatening water supplies, agriculture, and wildlife.

Hugh J. Pharics, special FBI agent, said sportsmen can help the nation's war effort by promptly reporting any suspicious persons or attempts at sabotage.

Bruce Browning, executive secretary of the Muskingum Watershed Conservancy district, told of the development of the lake areas in the district as recreation centers.

laria prevention, meaning that they would wield picks and shovels in draining projects for the duration.

This was the first fulfillment of President Getulio Vargas' promise that every Axis sympathizer and agent arrested would spend the war in hard labor deep in the interior. Axis agents were popularly, perhaps officially, blamed for tipping off U-boats about the sailing of at least 19 Brazilian ships that had been sunk.

Coincidentally, police searched for clandestine radio transmitters. Three were seized last week, bringing the total to 20 since Brazil broke diplomatic relations with the Axis last January.

Brazilian, British and United States planes kept up a relentless hunt for submarines off the coast. A dispatch from Montevideo last night said the submarines had been sighted off the northern coast of Uruguay by Brazilian planes.

Observers believed that the Axis would promptly try to retaliate for Uruguay's prompt expression of sympathy for Brazil.

Uruguay Ready To Act With Brazil

MONTEVIDEO — (UP) — Uruguay will quickly adopt measures to implement her "complete identity of views" with Brazil and put the nation in an internal state of war, but will not declare war on the Axis now, informed quarters said today.

President Alfredo Baldomir already had declared that Brazil was a non-belligerent, as far as Uruguay is concerned, and sent a message to President Getulio Vargas of Brazil, re-affirming the solidarity of the Uruguayan and Brazilian peoples and promising to comply with measures adopted last January at the emergency conference of American foreign ministers.

Wait Word From Argentine On War

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—South American diplomats awaited with undisguised interest today a statement by the Argentine government clarifying its position in the new international situation created by Brazil's entry into the war against Germany and Italy.

While the foreign office, which announced last night that such a statement would be forthcoming, gave no indication of its attitude, there was general belief the government would grant Brazil nonbelligerent status, thus enabling her ships to use Argentine ports as in peace times.

The position of Argentina—one of two western hemisphere nations still maintaining relations with the Axis powers — was thrown into bold relief by an expression of solidarity with Brazil which came from their joint neighbor, Uruguay.

Uruguay declared it was ready to carry out the Havana agreement which "makes the continent a single nation against aggressions of a non-American state."

TAFT ASKS FOR 10% SALES TAX

od of reaching all the income is through a sales tax, supplemented by the graduated income tax for single persons over $1,000 and family incomes over $2,000," he said. "Being a tax on spending, it discourages spending and so prevents inflation."

Taft's views were expressed in a radio debate last night as Finance Committee Chairman Walter F. George, D., Ga., announced that his group would reopen the income tax structure approved by the house for possible further increases. The house plan would nearly double the revenue expected this year from that source.

"If America is serious about paying for the war and checking inflation," George said, "the house figure of $4,000,000,000 in new income tax revenue must be increased."

He did not say how much that increase should be but expressed belief it should fall somewhere between the $4,000,000,000 and the $12,000,000,000 which "conservative administration economists outside the treasury" say must be absorbed from rising purchasing power.

Taft, in his radio speech, said that in normal times he was opposed to a sales tax. But in time of war "I don't believe that anyone objects to contributing his share to win."

Objections to a sales tax based on the theory that it would work a hardship on the low income groups, he said, can be overcome by exempting food purchases.

CHAPTER VI

"Then if you'll come tomorrow—"

"Is'nt my new maid going to stay now?" Daphne asked.

"Governess, not maid," Frani corrected. "No, she'll come tomorrow morning if Daddy says it's all right."

"I want her to stay now," the child insisted.

"I said tomorrow morning," Frani said sharply.

"But I want her now! Now!"

The last "now" was a wail. As Frani shook her head the wail grew into a shriek. Daphne was lying on the floor on her back, fat little legs kicking, plump little face tomato red as she emitted scream after scream.

Frani stood over her, hands to her ears. "Be still! Be Still! I tell you! My Lord! This is awful! Stop it! . . . Oh, well, then! Anything to make you shut up! . . . Will you stay now—what's your name? Amy?"

"Miss Tudor," Amy said quietly. For a moment her gaze locked with Frani's in challenge. Then Frani said more quietly and even with a certain dignity that surprised Amy, "Miss Tudor."

"I'll stay," Amy consented. Despite Daphne's shrieking she liked the lusty youngster.

Daphne bounced to her feet like a rubber ball. Her face was streaked with tears, but dimples dented the corners of her mouth. She took Amy's hand with a smile that would have gone straight to anyone's heart.

"Come on," she said. "I'll show you my garden."

"Yes, take her right now. The sooner the better," Frani exclaimed. "No, wait . . . Margaret," she called.

A big strong kindly-looking woman in maid's uniform came in and Frani said, "This is Miss Tudor, Daphne's new governess. Will you show her her room and have Joe bring her things up to the house from wherever she's been staying?"

"I want to show her my garden right now," Daphne insisted.

Frani looked worried. So did Margaret. But Amy said, "I can hardly wait to see it, Daphne. But, do you know, it's not a bit of fun to look at things when you haven't even had a chance to take your hat off. Do you think? Maybe you could help Margaret show me my room. Can you show rooms?"

Daphne beamed. "I can show rooms better than anybody. Come on. Let's go."

With Daphne's moist little hand clutching hers Amy followed Margaret across the big hallway. But just as they were about to ascend the stairs, Daphne pulled away from her with an ecstatic shriek, "Uncle Paul!"

There he was walking in upon them, simple and friendly, giving Amy a feeling of having something familiar to cling to after a gruelling half hour.

"Hello, Punk," he said to Daphne. And then "Hello, Amy."

She opened her mouth to say, "Hello, Paul," But she didn't say it.

Something made her look around. Frani was in the doorway watching with cold blue eyes, a little amused, a little bit insolent.

"How do you do?" Amy said stiffly and went upstairs.

Without a backward glance at Paul, who, she knew, was watching her in amazement, Amy took Daphne by the hand and followed the broad-shouldered second maid, Margaret, upstairs. But she saw the wide gracious stairway and the finely proportioned upper hall through a haze of indignation at Paul for having blundered in at that moment; indignation at herself for having gotten into such a situation—employed by a woman she disliked intensely, in love with the woman's brother. Oh yes, in love with him! Even though he was engaged to another girl. She, Amy Upchurch Tudor, of all people!

"Tudor," Daphne tugged at her hand, appealing to her in a warm husky little voice that was a childish echo of Frani's "Tudor, I say Don't you like your room?"

"Oh yes, I do, very much," Amy stuttered.

It was a pleasant place with a view of the river and heavy oak furniture decorated in red and blue Swedish motifs, gay against yellow eggshell plaster. It had its own bath and was connected by a small hall with Daphne's rooms.

Daphne had a bedroom decorated after the same manner with a double decker bed piled high with pillows covered with brilliantly—colored peasant fabrics, and a playroom with an amusing little corner fireplace of blue tile.

There was even a dinette where, Margaret explained, Daphne and her governess were to have their meals. Such an arrangement meant, Amy reflected, that she was to be nursemaid as well as governess.

After lunch they went out to see Daphne's garden, a square plot of almost bare ground with a lake made out of a tin pan filled with pebbles and water and decorated with pieces of broken china. At its edge a lone Canterberry bell leaned like the tower of Pisa, and a few frost-bitten snapdragons bit the dust.

"My father lets me do anything I want to with my garden," Daphne explained. "We play here Sundays when he's home. I love my father.

"I love my mother too, sometimes," she added as an afterthought. "But sometimes I hate her. Maybe if my father could get a divorce from my mother he could marry you."

"Daphne!" Amy gasped.

"I heard Mrs. Actling talking about it when my mother was having a party," Daphne said. "She said my father'd get a divorce sometime But maybe you could marry my Uncle Paul. Only he's going to marry Marcia Fairbairne. Mrs. Actling said he was marrying her because she has so much money. But I don't think he'd ever want to get a divorce because she's so nice."

Frani had said nothing as to Daphne's schedule, but Margaret told her Daphne usually slept each afternoon until about 3 o'clock and then she had a bath and a fresh dress so that she might be ready when her father came home. Amy wondered how Frani could forego the ceremony of soaping the plump sturdy little body, of combing tangles from the thick glossy black hair (thought Daphne made a wrestling match of the process) of selecting a dress from the dozens hanging in Daphne's closet.

She was amazed to discover that Daphne didn't know how to lace her own oxfords. But she was pleased with the youngster's determination to learn when she was challenged with the idea.

Daphne was absorbed in her task, her little pink tongue showing between her teeth like a puppy's when Frani came in, incredibly beautiful in turquoise velvet.

"What am I paying you for if my child has to lace her own oxfords?" she demanded icily.

Amy faced her, her eyes dark with scorn and anger. "I can't help it what happens," she thought. "This is the show-down."

"I accepted this position with the belief that you were paying me to teach her to be independent and self-reliant," she declared. "That you wanted her to be restrained and well-bred and considerate and all the lovely things Daphne is capable of being."

"I think she is right," a deep masculine voice interrupted

Amy turned to see a tall man standing in the doorway. He was somewhere in his late twenties or perhaps early thirties—lean and bronzed with a rich crimson glow in his cheeks and grey eyes that revealed kindliness.

"Daddy!" Daphne shrieked, dropping one shoe as she flew into his arms

He picked her up and Amy liked his pleasant shy laugh.

"One shoe off and one shoe on, diddle diddle dumpling my son, John," he quoted. "Er no! Diddle diddle dumpling, daughter Daphne. One shoe on and one shoe half-on! Not so good, but it'll do."

"Daddy, I have a new maid and I love her," Daphne shouted.

"Not maid—governess," Frani corrected. "This is Daphne's new governess. Amy Upchurch Tudor. Paul found her. She speaks French, and has a nice voice and a lovely accent when she speaks English," Frani went on, explaining Amy's good points as though she were a horse or a dog.

The man held out a strong brown hand, smiling over Daphne's shoulder. "My daughter seems to approve vigorously. You know what they say about a child's instincts. I hope you'll like her. She's spoiled in spots, but she's sound at the core."

Amy began a reply, but Frani interrupted. "Come on, Guy, I've ordered dinner early. We're having the bunch in"

He sobered, looked a little stubborn. "Look, Frani, I wonder if you'd count me out. I have that man from South America coming in the morning and I'll have to get some sleep. I can't take it," he explained, laughing, to Amy.

"You mean you can't take my friends," Frani interrupted hotly. "If it's someone you like it's all right. I noticed you could take that little number your friend brought from South America!"

"Oh, all right, Frani," he said gently, "I guess I can manage. Come on."

Amy felt his keen embarrassment at Frani's picking a quarrel in her presence.

"He's a lovely person," she thought after they had left, she picked up the little wads of socks Daphne had flung under the bed. "Why, he's the sort who might be described as 'the answer to the maiden's prayer,' handsome, rich—more than that—big, kind, generous."

Germans Have To Eat This Way, Work When Ill

"Be a good boy and eat your bread and lubricating oil," may become the German mother's table admonition. A German broadcast, monitored by the Federal Communications commission, credits Ministerial Director Dr. Moritz, leader of the Division for Fat Provisions in the Reich's Ministry for Nutrition and Agriculture, with this statement—"If anyone had said a while ago that we could eke out the provisions of butter with lubricating oil, we would have considered that a bad joke. We have today, however, gone so far that we can utilize lubricating oil in the manufacturing of food fats, in such a manner that it is hardly possible to find a difference in taste from the well known vegetable fats."

According to the Belgrade paper Novo Vreme, women are forbidden to drive motor cars or bicycles without special permission of the German military commander.

Tuberculosis need be no barrier to work in Germany, a Nazi short wave broadcast, monitored in this country, informed its German audience that the health commissioner of the Westmar, Dr. Gebels, had written that 50 inmates from the tuberculosis home in Metz had been put to part time work in a dairy.

The same station in another broadcast quoted the Gauleiter (district leader) as addressing the women of Kaiderslautern as follows—"Just because her husband or her son is on the eastern front, a woman does not have to waste her time in cafes and smoke the cigarets meant for the soldiers. She does not sacrifice any more than almost every other German woman."

Daytime, Evening Coiffures Easy With Basic Hairdo

BETTY CLARKE
Wide World Beauty Editor

New fall hairdos are in tune with the times. If you're one of the busy girls of today, you'll be doubly pleased with them. They are time savers and are designed for quick changes, as well as beauty. In a jiffy you can transform a smart casual coiffure into one that is really glamorous for that special date, or long-dress evening.

You start with the new basic haircut. Jacques, hair stylist for Ogilvie Sisters, says that is the most important element in any hair styling. He suggests the hair be cut from four and one-half to five inches all around the head. It should be shaped and thinned out whenever necessary for good lines.

CASUAL for daytime.

For daytime he dresses the hair in soft, off-the-face waves. It is combed back casually, with no curlicues or corkscrews around the face. The back falls into loose ringlets.

For evening he glamourizes the same basic haircut by dressing the hair high for elegance. The sides and back are swept dramatically upward, then brought forward in a soft arrangement of curls. It's all done with a simple turn of the wrist.

BASIC CUT—4½ to 5 inches.

DRAMATIZED for evening.

MEETING CHANGED.

A change of date has been made in the meeting of the Busy Bee club of Jackson township. There will be an all day gathering Wednesday, Aug. 26, at the home of Mrs E. J. Lubbe on Bowman street road, for a pot luck dinner.

An Obsession For Man She Never Knew

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Sometimes the most level-headed people have queer obsessions. You've seen the tragic side of this in the grotesque marriages that men and women sometimes make under the spell of these delusions.

A woman writes me:

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I'm 26 years old, been married seven years, have three lovely children, and a very nice husband who likes to stay home and play with the children.

I met a man a couple of years ago. He's not good-looking, and I don't even know his age and he doesn't try to impress women. What happens? He's in my brain, in my blood, and I can't get rid of thoughts of him. I've never had a long conversation with him, just passing comments. He probably doesn't even know I exist. But I get the craziest urges to go where I know he will be. But, thank goodness, I have enough will power not to go.

I've filled my time with Red Cross sewing, Navy Relief, First Aid courses, U.S.O., etc. But no matter how busy I keep myself, when I relax I think of him. I keep trying to switch this love back to my husband but can't. It's got me. I've never touched this man's hand, but yet I'd love to be held by him. How can I cast this man from my thoughts?

A. V. M.

I'm glad, A. V. M., you have the sense to diagnose your own case and the will power not to give 'way to it.

Perhaps if you met this man and talked to him you'd be bored to tears. At least this was the experience of a friend of mine who worshipped frm afar, and was finally thrown with her charmer and couldn't stand him. With your home, your husband and children, better stand pat. Too much to lose chasing phantoms.

Would Like a Civil Service Job.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

Being an experienced stenographer and typist and a P.B.X operator, I ssould like to do work of this kind in an Army Camp. Am now employed, but would like to have a Government job for the duration. Where do I file my application, or apply for such a position?

M. E. D.

If you would like to take a government job as a stenographer-typist, you must apply to your postmaster for an application blank which you fill out and send to the Civil Service Commission. When it has been accepted you take the Civil Service examination which is usually given in your own postoffice; you will be notified the date in advance.

If you'd like to join the WAAC or the new WAVE (Navy) go to your nearest Army or Navy Recruiting Station and register.

The P. B. X. operators take a Civil Service examination also—blanks obtainable from your postmaster.

WAAC's Wow Army (and Maggie)

By MARGARET KERNODLE
(World Wide Features Writer)

FORT DES MOINES, Iowa—I followed the WAAC's around this training center for a day. I'm all in, but they're going strong in study hall. Then they'll return to the barracks to breeze through laundry or other little daily duties, until lights out in sleeping quarters at 9:30 and in the laundry at 10:30.

The WAAC's won me over. I expected to see merely a bunch of rookies after only three weeks of training. The Army men admit they're surprised and pleased with the progress, too.

Even the commandant, Col. Don C. Faith, says "They're learning 2½ times as fast as any soldier I ever saw." Everybody seemed to forget these women were prize pupils to begin with, picked for physical and mental near-perfection. We know it now.

Officers who griped about coming to train females (and many were disgusted with this assignment) were caught bragging, "That's my company" as the WAAC's strutted through their first public parade. The WAAC zeal for daily schedule stacks up with their skill in parade. The training director, Capt. Gordon C. Jones, says drill instruction was cut 13 per cent from the usual army schedule because the girls learned rapidly. He has found them quick in first aid and sanitation study and expects them to shine in mess management because he believes they'll already know much about cuts of meat and cooking co-ordination.

Reveille woke the WAAC's up at 5:45. Mess call came at 6:30. They dashed to close order drill shortly. I panted along. They wore galoshes because the dew still clung to the grass as they struck 120 paces a minute with a 30-inch (regular army) stride. Mine is only 22, which seemed to be their average three weeks ago. They lined up in front of barracks again for a half mile march to an administration class. Second class was property accountability, which is the Army way of saying financial responsibility. Back to the barracks, they made mail call before clicking off to mess hall where they read letters while waiting for food. WAAC's out-ate me even when I was hungry and the food was good. Before mess, the company commander, Capt. G. T. Skinner, announced special schedule changes.

WAAC's and I listened to three other lectures including mess management, military customs and flag courtesies. Later they went through exercises for the sake of flexibility and endurance. (A good thing, I think.) In between times they posed for official photographs and took turns for personal interviews with the commandant. He interviews every WAAC. There are about 1,000 WAAC's here now, and about 1,000 a month are expected from now on.

Don't worry, soldier boys, the petticoat army hits a hard pace, too.

"WE SALUTE YOU!" say surprised Army officers, proud of WAAC quick progress.

KEEP 'EM CLEAN . . . WAACs find every day is wash day in the petticoat army.

SWEEPSTAKES . . . WAACs mix chores with Army drill.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers)

By ADELE GARRISON

I WONDERED if, as Dicky often tells me, my head was getting as soft as my heart, when I this time became convinced that Carolyn's outburst was not a mere "show," but based on genuine terror and grief.

"Oh, oh!" she was moaning, "nobody will believe me, and I can't get out to find—Oh, what will become of Marion and me?"

I knew there was no use trying to soothe her.

"Carolyn, listen to me!" I commanded. "Mrs. Underwood, who is undergoing the torments of the damned because she does not know Marion's fate is very anxious to see you and talk to you."

She started up, her eyes wild with terror.

"But I don't know anything about where Marion is. That's why I want—"

She bit back her words quickly, but I seized upon them.

"That's why you want to get out of here, to see some one who you think can tell you something about Marion."

"I didn't say that," she said sullenly.

"You didn't need to say it," I replied. "We all know perfectly well, Carolyn, that whether or not you have guilty knowledge of Marion's capture by the gangsters, you have a dangerous link with one of them.

"What hold he has over you we can only guess," I went on, "but whether or not you wish to be freed from him, you are going to be. I can promise you that."

Lillian Not Told.

She whirled over on her back and for an instant her eyes stared into mine with such a look of relieved joy, like that of an animal rescued from a trap, that I could hardly believe my eyes. Then, as rapidly the sullen look returned, and I saw that more skillful "tiger trainers" than I would have to take her in hand.

But Lillian was waiting, and I essayed once more to engineer that meeting at least.

"Carolyn," I said, "when I said we all knew about your conduct with that gangster, I should have made one exception. We have told Mrs. Underwood nothing about it. She simply wants to see you and talk with you about the last time you saw Marion. Won't you go to see her?"

A look of reluctance shot over her face, then she pulled herself together, evidently recognizing the inevitable.

"Of course," she said. "Just a sec, till I freshen up."

I went with her to the door of Lillian's room and ushered her in. As Lillian's arms went around her daughter's "roomie," and Carolyn began to sob against her shoulder, I beckoned Miss Whitlock to come out.

"She can't get out of those rooms except through this door?" I queried.

"That's right, and the windows are all barred," she said.

"Then," I warned her in emphatic tones, "watch out for her when she comes back through this door. She is determined to get out of the house, and I am counting on you to thwart her, by force if necessary.

"But I don't want Mrs. Underwood to suspect anything of what the girl is trying to do. Any handling of her must be done quietly."

"Leave it to me," Miss Whitlock answered competently.

HOROSCOPE

For Tuesday, August 25

OPPORTUNITY may be said to be knocking at the door on this day, with urgent demands that such openings, generous and expansive, be grasped and developed to their fullest scope. This may require initiative and enterprise sustained by sound ideas, well organized plans and practical constructive technique. New and perhaps audacious ideas may incite to decisive and even dramatic and thrilling adventure in putting over important projects. Influential persons, powerful friends with capital may bounteously cooperate where industry, initiative and workable plans are illuminated by flashes of intuition or imagination.

Those whose birthday it is may find a year in which luck may come knocking at the door with insistence. It should be responded to with alacrity, audacity and determination, backed up by sound and practical plans for putting over new and large-scale programs, possibly in fresh fields or with bold strokes of initiative. This enthusiasm and self-reliance, together with a measure of subtlety, intuition or imagination in such propositions, should appeal to influential persons of capital and prestige.

A child born on this day should be endowed with great initiative and enterprise, backed up by practical constructive ability as well as intuition and insight. It should be able to promote large affairs and attract influential support and much success.

"The Authority on Authorities"

"PLEASE DO NOT BID"

There is one situation in which your partner definitely makes that request of you. It is when he redoubles over an informative or takeout double of your bid by the player at your left. In a nutshell, he tells you that, if the opponent at your right then makes a bid, there is a very good chance the bid can be set badly, as his own hand is so strong. He tells you that, if you are unable to double that opponent's bid, you should not make a bid of your own, but should pass and give your partner a whack at it. The redoubler guarantees that, if he cannot double that opposing bid, he will make a bid of his own.

	♠ 10 4 ♥ A Q 9 8 ♦ J 10 9 5 ♣ K Q 5
♠ K 8 5 3 ♥ K 10 5 ♦ A 6 2 ♣ A J 10	N W E S	♠ 9 7 ♥ J 6 4 3 2 ♦ 7 4 3 ♣ 9 7 3
	♠ A Q J 6 2 ♥ 7 ♦ K Q 8 ♣ 8 6 4 2

(Dealer: South. Neither side vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	Dbl	Rdbl	2 ♥
2 ♠	Pass	2 NT	Pass
3 NT

When South made that call of 2-Spades, he violated the underlying basis of the meaning of such a redouble by his partner. Since he could not double the bid himself, his job was to pass and see what North wanted to do. North would have doubled it. In fact, that is what happened at one table of a duplicate game where the bidding began the same way. East was set three tricks, losing one in spades, three in hearts, two in diamonds and two in clubs, giving North and South a score of 500 points.

South's taking out of East from 2-Hearts into 2-Spades shook him down off of the dangerous limb on which his side had climbed when West doubled. It resulted in North getting into a game contract which could be made, and which produced an extra trick. But that gave the side only 430 points.

About the only time when South should have bid on top of his partner's redouble would have been one in which he had such great suit length, in one or two suits, that the prospects were brilliant for a much better score playing the hand than on the defensive. But South had nothing freakish this time, and should have observed the customary procedure of experts.

Try Potato Salad for His Picnic

By BETSY NEWMAN

We mustn't forget the picnic, even if we can't drive far. Porches, back yards, and nearby parks have been discovered, or rediscovered, this year, and we are making them do for the duration, and having a swell time. Of course we must have a potato salad for a picnic so try out a new recipe I'm giving you today.

Today's Menu.

Ham, Hamburgers or Wieners
Potato Salad
Pickled Whole Beets
Olives Buns
Fruit Cheese
Chocolate Cake
Coffee or Ginger Ale

Potato Salad.

6 c. cooked potatoes, sliced
1 c. green onions, sliced
2 tsps. salt
¼ tsp. white pepper
⅔ c. salad dressing
3 tbsps. lemon juice
1 tbsp. prepared mustard
Pimento for garnish

Slice cold cooked potatoes and onions into very thin slices, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Combine glassed salad dressing, lemon juice, and prepared mustard and mix lightly until every slice is coated. Chill in refrigerator until ready to use. The salad may be garnished with bits of pimiento.

THEATERS

Blackmail Thriller.

Story of romance and intrigue in pre-war Paris, "Crossroads," the Ohio attraction, gives William Powell a new leading lady in the person of Hedy Lamarr. Powell plays the role of a French diplomat caught in the toils of blackmailers seeking to wreck his career. Miss Lamarr plays his wife while Basil Rathbone has the part of the chief of the blackmailers. Mansfield's Patty Hale is appearing in the musical brevity, "The Daughter of Rosie O'Grady" on the same bill.

West Point Story.

The early days of a famous military academy that depended upon the record of its first graduating class for existence are pictured in "Ten Gentlemen From West Point," the Madison attraction. John Sutton, George Montgomery and Laird Cregar have the leading roles with Cregar playing the commandant. Maureen O'Hara furnishes the feminine interest. "Night In New Orleans," the co-feature, has Patricia Morison and Preston Foster in the leading roles.

Steinbeck Yarn.

Frank Morgan furnishes the big dramatic moment in "Tortilla Flat," the Ritz attraction opening tomorrow, when he re-creates the dedication of a golden candlestick for his five mongrel dogs. Morgan plays one of the simple Spanish Americans of Monterey about whom John Steinbeck wrote. Spencer Tracey, John Garfield and Hedy Lamarr, with Morgan, top the cast. Allan Jones, Judy Canova and Jerry Colonna in "True to the Army," is the second picture.

Thrilling Tale.

Lover, fighter, adventurer and champion of human rights, Jack London's hero, Martin Eden, lives on the Park screen in Glenn Ford, star of "Adventures of Martin Eden." A lusty, seafaring tale of men who sailed on "devil ships" manned by the most inhuman of captains the picture shows Eden's efforts to bring about social justice. Claire Trevor, Evelyn Keyes and Stuart Erwin are in the cast. Margie Hart in "Lure of the Islands," is the co-feature.

Over a hundred entries are expected for this year's Ohio Seniors golf tournament at Westbrook Country club scheduled for Sept. 3-4.

Last year the Seniors ate in a tent at Westbrook. This year they'll have somewhat better accommodations in the new Westbrook clubhouse.

But tent or clubhouse make little difference to the old timers. They'll have their fun wherever they go.

Miss Frances Wolfe of Mansfield is the new women's tennis champion of Ashland, after defeating Mrs. Alvin Ziemke 6-2, 6-1 in the finals of the Brookside tournament.

Teacher and coach at Newman school during the winter, Miss Wolfe has been employed this summer as assistant director of playground activities in Ashland. And she was also manager of the Ashland Methodist boys' softball team.

And her boss in the Ashland playground job is Prof. Alvin Ziemke of Ashland high school. Someone should have told Frances it isn't good policy to beat the boss's wife, even in tennis.

Remind me that it will make a good story this fall when Coach Frances Wolfe's Newman school gridders meet Coach Lois Baughman's Hedges team.

I doubt if there's another town in the whole country where boys' football teams coached by women meet in championship play. I wouldn't know whether that would be a talking point for the welcome-to-Mansfield committee.

Brewers Win Seven In Row

Climb To Top of AA Baseball Standings.

(By Associated Press)

Those baffling Brewers of Milwaukee have broken through the American Association bottleneck on top and are in an enviable position to increase their lead as they open a series tonight with last place St. Paul.

* * *

Milwaukee climbed on the roost for the first time in a couple of months by winning seven straight games before Minneapolis stepped in yesterday to capture the back end of a doubleheader.

Columbus, although losing twice to Louisville, controlled second place, a half game behind the Brewers, while Kansas City was planted in third and the Colonels and Minneapolis locked in fourth and fifth, only four games behind the leader.

The Colonels clipped the Red Birds 7 to 2 and 7 to 3. "Chick" Sayles kept nine hits well spaced in the open while his Louisville mates were making the most of the same number of wallops, bunching six of them for five runs in the third inning off Bill Crouch.

Red Kress, with four hits in four trips, and Andy Gilbert, with two hitss, paced the Colonels' 10-hit attack on Harry Brecheen and Kenny Burkhart in the after piece.

Milwaukee, after beating the Millers 6 to 5 in the first game, dropped the second 6 to 3.

St. Paul made good use of four hits to beat Tommy Reis and Kansas City, 3 to 1, but lost the nightcap, 7 to 2.

* * *

One of the best hurling jobs of the season was turned in by John Hutchings of Indianapolis who shutout the Toledo Mudhens, 1 to 0, on three hits after the hens had swept the first game, 5 to 1.

Widows Pride Wins Colt Pace

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—(U.P.)—Widows Pride won the $2,500 American stake for two year old pacers yesterday at the Wisconsin state fair grounds, upsetting the favorite, Adios.

Adios won the first heat and led up to the wire in the second heat where he stopped. Widows Pride took the heat and then went on to win the third and deciding heat. The times were 2:06¾; 2:06½; 2:21.

* * *

Uncle Walt, a Class 7 trotter owned by Wisconsin Gov. Julius Heil and Bartel Brothers of Milwaukee, took a $1.000 feature race. The favorite, Lucy Hanover, owned by Hanover Shoe farms, won the first heat but placed second and third in the remaining runnings. The times were 2:07½; 2.07½; 2.05¾.

Fans Still Thrill to Bambino

Babe Ruth and Big Train Play Again.

By LAWTON CARVER

NEW YORK—(INS)—Babe Ruth still is the greatest attraction in baseball and when he hit what might be called unofficially the 715th home run of his career the biggest, most enthusiastic screaming roar of this season was turned loose in Yankee stadium to be heard for miles around. His return to the diamond in behalf of the war effort created a thrill—a nostalgic, tear-jerking thrill—beyond the expectations of those who came to see him swing a bat again.

* * *

Baseball has had many moments before now that dripped with sentiment, but none to compare with yesterday's spectacle, insofar as those 69,136 steaming spectators were concerned.

The moment Walter Johnson was introduced over the public address system and walked slowly to the mound as though he were about to take up the burden again for the Washington Senators, they started to scream. While the Big Train warmed up with bald Benny Bengough, a Yankee catcher during Ruth heyday and now a Washington coach, the great horde of spectators leaned on each other with necks craning, then split the heavens again with another roar when Billy Evans came out to call balls and strikes.

Yet to this New York crowd, the Babe stood alone and it was to him that such homage as few has-beens have ever known was paid.

I personally thought that Johnson out there on the mound with his free and easy pitching motion and the magnetism of a grand character was as much a show as the Babe himself, and ripples of admiration ran through the stands every time he wound-up, cocked his leg, reared back and fired the ball, but to the New York crowd, the Babe as always, must be the hero and he didn't let them down.

Johnson seemed more intent upon getting the ball over than in pitching strikes and the result was inevitable with the Babe up there.

He hit what might be called a home run into the right field stands, smacked out a couple of lesser hits, swung viciously at a couple that whizzed by him, and finished with a drive that fell foul by a few feet in the upper stands. Soon as he connected he started around the bases, dogtrotting as he used to do when he put one out of the park, and foul or no foul, jogged on over the plate and took off his cap in response to the roars, also as he used to do.

Thus did the 47-year-old Babe, and the 55-year-old Big Train, with the aid of a contemporary of their times, Billy Evans, help to pile more thousands of dollars into the Army-Navy Relief fund, which passed a half million dollars with the completion of the benefit games yesterday.

The Army-Navy Relief fund will get about $80,000 out of the game, or the biggest lump raised in any of the relief fund games.

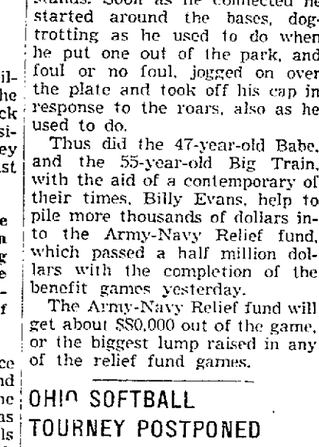
OHIO SOFTBALL TOURNEY POSTPONED

COLUMBUS —(AP)— The men's state softball tournament, postponed by weather Saturday, will be resumed Tuesday night.

A fourth semi-finalist still was to be selected when the delay was announced. The Ferguson State Auditors of Columbus were leading Owens-Corning of Newark 3 to 1 with two out in the first half of the fifth inning. The tournament will resume at that point.

On Wednesday night in a semi-final Barklow Engineers of Portsmouth meet Bert's Billiards of Dayton.

Coach Hired



PAUL E. GETTYS

New coach at Lexington high school this year is Paul E. Gettys, graduate of Western State Teachers college at Kalamazoo, Mich. He has been coaching four years, the last two at Marseilles, O., where he lost only three games out of 18 in basketball last year, and went to the district tournament the year before. He worked one summer as playground supervisor at Kalamazoo. He has been employed this summer at the ordnance plant in Marion.

BALDINGER LEADS IN RIFLE SHOOT

J. Baldinger shot high gun in the Mansfield Muzzle Loader Rifle club matches Saturday, and E. Wagner was second. Baldinger also took first in the 50-yard rest matches with a low string of 1:43 inches for three shots.

Defends Title At Vandalia

Tulbert Returns To Trapshooting Wars.

VANDALIA — (U.P.) — Walter Tulburt, Detroit furnace salesman who entered the 1941 Grand American trapshoot "just for fun" then won first honors and more than $1,000 in prizes, was back on the firing line today but with a business-like gleam in his eye.

Tulburt banged away at first repeat title winning honors as shattered clay pigeons and the crack of 12-gauge shotguns filled the air along the Amateur Trapshoot association's quarter-mile firing range indicating opening of the 43rd annual Grand American.

Today's program called for 100 targets at 16 yards which will decide the veterans' championship, open to any shooter 70-years old or older. Other contests today are the husband-wife and father-daughter or son championships in which combined scores are counted.

The junior, sub-junior, champion of champions and the second annual newspaper men's race also will be fired today.

Premier marksmen from 48 states, Canada and the Canal Zone began firing an estimated 1,000,000 shotgun shells which will be used during the five-day "roaring Grand." The shoot ends Friday with the $100,000 Grand American handicap as a climax.

War conditions failed to hamper the entry lists and government approval made it easier for some of the nation's crack marksmen, now teaching gunnery in air force schools, to obtain leaves.

The Grand American, blue ribbon event of the scatter-gun world series since its inauguration 42 years ago, will be held under rules altered for the first time to provide better margins for "old timers" and big name contestants.

The Grand American handicap, previously a 100-target, will be a 200-target event this year.

With marksmen handicapped according to their percentage of broken registered targets and "known ability" a novice whose fire happened to be "hot" on the day of the finals often outshot a more experienced rival. According to handicaps the marksmen range from 16 to 25 yards from the traphouse with the better-rated contestants at the greater distances.

Spreading the shoot-off over two days was expected to give high-ranking marksmen such as Lieut. Joe Heistand of Hillsboro, O., a better chance against the novices with easier handicaps in the shorter runs. Heistand holds a 16-yard run of 1179 targets.

Other top-ranking marksmen who will participate in the shooting are Capt. Phil Miller of French Lick, Ind., Lieut. Vic Reinders of Waukesha, Wis., and Major J. B. Grier, professional from Rockland, Del.

Ducky Permitted To Don Uniform

CHARLESTON, W. Va.—(AP)—Howard (Ducky) Holmes, fiery manager of the Dayton Ducks of the Mid-Atlantic league, was back in uniform today after a week's suspension for disputing an umpire.

League President Elmer Daily suspended Holmes indefinitely following an argument with the arbiter at Canton, but lifted the order as the Ducks came here Saturday for a five-game series that might decide the league's pennant winner.

Charleston is leading Dayton by three and one-half games following a divided doubleheader Saturday. Yesterday's games were postponed, as were the Erie at Zanesville games. Springfield and Canton postponed two afternoon contests, but played last night, Canton won 3-2.

Segura Takes Longwood Title

CHESTNUT HILLS, Mass.—(U.P.)—Francisco Segura of Ecuador prepared for the national singles tournament beginning Thursday at Forest Hills, N. Y., by capturing the 48th annual Longwood Bowl tennis tournament yesterday.

Segura, two-handed stylist and top-seeded foreign player, defeated Lieut. Gardnar Mulloy of Miami, Fla., 6-3, 6-4, 7-9, 3-6, 6-1.

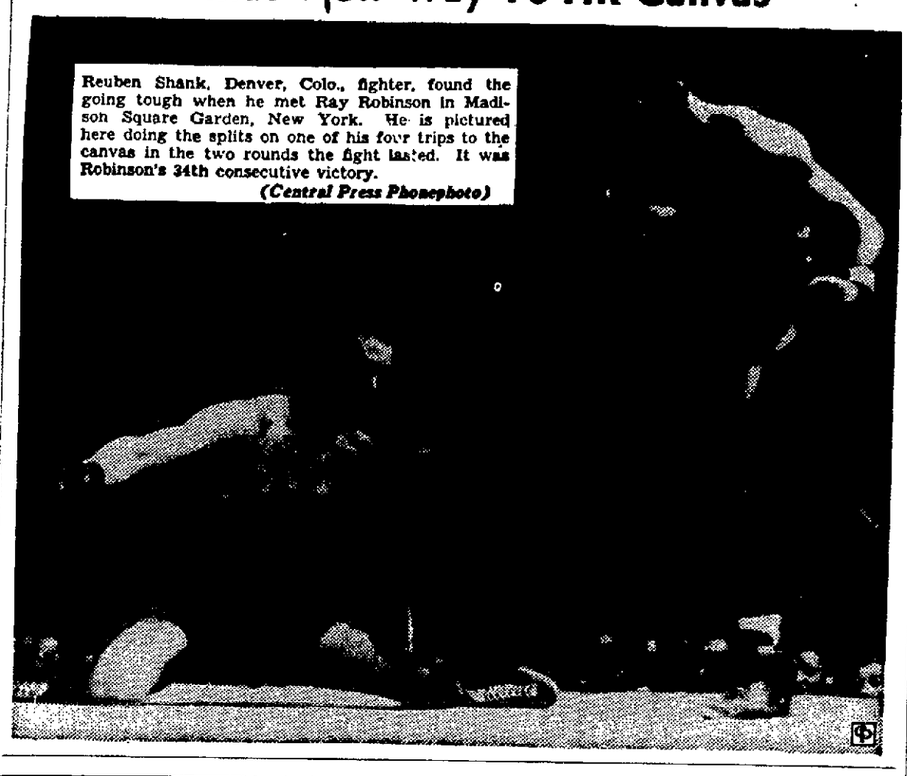
Then he teamed with Alejo Russell of Argentina and won the men's doubles title, 6-2, 10-8, from the favored tandem of Mulloy and Dick McKee of Miami.

In the women's final, 19-year-old Louise Brough of Beverly Hills, Calif., won her fifth straight major title, defeating third-seeded Margaret Osborne of San Francisco, 6-2, 6-1. Miss Brough, national junior girls' titlist, is undefeated this season.

NEW CHAMPS WIN

Painesville Arcades, new champions of Ohio girl softball ranks, defeated the old champions, the Mansfield Provident Loans, 6-2, before a big crowd at North Lake park yesterday.

Reuben Finds New Way To Hit Canvas



Reuben Shank, Denver, Colo., fighter, found the going tough when he met Ray Robinson in Madison Square Garden, New York. He is pictured here doing the splits on one of his four trips to the canvas in the two rounds the fight lasted. It was Robinson's 34th consecutive victory.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK—(Wide World—Here are a couple of new angles on the football-for-soldiers business, presented by a guy who was closely connected with the college game before he went into the army air force. . . . His idea is that the only service men who can get ready to play tough schedules are the cadets who have regular hours set aside for athletics. The ones who work with planes (or make it machineguns, tanks, etc.) for 12 or 14 hours a day are too tired for serious athletics. . . . "The boys in khaki have another big battle and they will not be as interested in football as they were in college.

SAILOR'S SALE

When a sailor thumbed a ride on a truck in Detroit the other day the result was the sale of $27,500 worth of tickets for the Amateur Softball association world championships . . . the sailor was Chief Petty Officer Max Gail. . . . He told the truck driver, who was Bill Barnett, athletic director of the Teamsters union. . . . Barnett got a bright idea, and the eventual result was that the union bought out the U. of Detroit stadium for the night of the tournament semi-finals.

Redlegs Meet Great Lakes

Blanked Twice, 3-0, By Chicago Cub Hurlers.

GREAT LAKES, Ill. — (AP) — Decorated with two brand new coats of whitewash, the Cincinnati Reds stopped here today to attempt what they couldn't do with the help of the Chicago Cubs June 30—beat Mickey Cochrane's Great Lakes Naval Training station team.

The sailors whipped a Cincinnati-Chicago combine 3-1 in an Army-Navy benefit game at Cincinnati, and it would be a surprise if the back-pedaling Redlegs win today.

Cincinnati's attack hit a new low yesterday when Claude Passeau blanked them 3-0, and Lon Warneke downed them by the same score on two hits in the nightcap.

Lon Warneke's two-hitter was his best performance of the year.

The Arkansas humming bird didn't walk a man, and no Redleg was left on base. Frank McCormick doubled in the second and was forced by Gee Walker who went out stealing, and Lonnie Frey, who singled in the fourth, was caught in a double play.

The Cubs beat Bucky Walters in the first frame of the opener, scoring all their runs on Phil Cavaretta's double, Bill Nicholson's single and three consecutive errors with two out.

In the second game Lou Novikoff doubled and scored on Len Merullo's double in the second inning; and a trio of singles in the fifth and again in the seventh scored a run in each of those frames, sending Paul Derringer to his tenth defeat.

Plymouth And Bucyrus Split

Plymouth Locomotives broke even in a double header at Bucyrus yesterday, winning the first game 13-6 and dropping the nightcap 7-0.

Both games were decided in the first inning, Plymouth scoring eight runs in the opening frame of the first tilt, and Bucyrus getting four runs in the initial stanza of the second game.

Tribe Clings To 3rd Place

Start Tonight on Last Tour of Eastern Towns.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Clinging to third place by a half-game, the Cleveland Indians embark tonight on their season's fourth and final eastern tour.

If past performance is a basis for determining the outcome of this trip, the Tribe could be relied upon to get a slightly better than even break in its next ten games, starting with a double at Boston tomorrow.

* * *

The Tribe dropped within a half-game of fourth-place St. Louis yesterday by dividing a double header with the Chicago White Sox.

After losing the opener in the ninth inning, 3 to 1, Cleveland shut out the Chisox 1 to 0 in the 10-inning nightcap behind the five-hit pitching of Jim Bagby.

Oris Hockett's scratch single and Ken Keltner's double produced the Tribe's lone run in the extra inning of the second game.

Ted Lyons limited the Tribe to three hits in the opener.

Leading 1 to 0 going into the ninth, Al Smith walked Wally Moses, Myril Hoag singled and Luke Appling doubled home the tying run. Taft Wright was purposely passed and Bob Kennedy, running for Hoag, crossed the plate when Joe Kuhel flied to Hockett. Appling scored on Mike Tresh's long fly.

Baseball Helps In War Effort

American League Gives Over $250,000 To Relief.

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR

(Associated Press Sports Writer)

THE last of 16 teams yesterday chalked up their most important "assist" of the season—designed to help the families of the nation's fighting men.

The program, in which the receipts of eight regularly scheduled games in each circuit were earmarked for Army-Navy relief, was completed when the American league boosted the contributions past the half million dollar mark.

A New York crowd paid an estimated $80,000 to see the Yankees and the Washington Senators. In Detroit, the Tigers and the St. Louis Browns drew a gate of $68,172. And approximately $30,000 came in at Philadelphia, where the Athletics met the Boston Red Sox.

These doubleheaders, redesignated as relief games after the first five American League Army-Navy contests brought in less than $75,000, enabled the junior circuit to surpass its quota of $250,000, although it fell short of the $270,000 produced by the National league.

As for the pennant races, the Yankees watched their American league shrink to nine full games while the Brooklyn Dodgers hiked their margin in the National league to seven and a half.

The Dodgers, who open an important four-game series with the second-place Cardinals in St. Louis tonight, turned back the New York Giants in both ends of a double bill.

The first game went ten innings before Dolph Camilli came up with the bases loaded and blasted the only ball pitched by Reliever Harry Feldman for a grand slam homer to trip the Giants, 6-4. Camilli also drove in both the other Dodger runs, but Mel Ott nullified these with a two-fun home and Johnny Mize gave the Giants a short-lived lead with a four-bagger that netted two runs in the top half of the tenth.

Darkness held the second game to five frames and again it was a last ditch rally that gave the Brooks the nod, 7-5.

* * *

The Pittsburgh Pirates ended a St. Louis winning streak at eight games when a home run by Elbie Fletcher downed the Cards, 5-3, but Murry Dickson pitched the Red Birds to a 5-2 verdict in the after-piece.

Claude Passeau and Lon Warneke hurled a pair of shutouts as the Chicago Cubs blanked the Cincinnati Reds twice by identical scores of 3-0.

Boston and Philadelphia split, the Braves taking the first game, 3-1, and the Phils grabbing the nightcap, 2-0, on Rube Melton's four-hit pitching.

In the American league, the Senators rallied for three runs in the ninth inning to beat the Yanks, 7-6, but Ernie Bonham blanked Washington, 3-0, in the nightcap.

The Boston Red Sox picked up a game on the leaders by shutting out the Athletics, 2-0, and 7-0.

The Chicago White Sox took a 3-1 decision over the Cleveland Indians, but Jim Bagby hurled the Tribe to a 1-0 triumph in the ten-inning nightcap.

The St. Louis Browns pulled to within half a game of third-place Cleveland by stopping the Detroit Tigers, 2-1 and 4-2, the second game going ten innings.

FRACTIONALLY HIGHER PRICES BRIGHTEN MART

Industrial Output Continues Upward Swing; Steel Scrap Shortage Stays Critical.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Fractionally higher prices brightened the stock market picture in today's early proceedings.

At a fairly active opening gainers included General Motors, Goodyear and General Electric.

Trend analysts studied the federal reserve board survey indicating industrial output of the country rose further in July, with the board's seasonally adjusted index moving up from 176 to 180 per cent of the 1935-39 average. The expansion was extended in the first half of August, reflecting continued growth of output of military products.

Notice was taken of the magazine "Steel" review which warned that the scrap situation in this industry remained critical insofar as the future is concerned.

ALLIES SMASH 13 JAP PLANES NEAR DARWIN

Use Secret Tactics to Balk Heaviest Attempt of War To Bomb Australia.

planes downed out of 96 for an Allied loss of one plane.

Over the northeastern zone, while the Darwin force was smashing the enemy attack, an Allied plane unit on offensive reconnaissance bombed enemy buildings and the wharf area on Buka island, at the northern end of the Solomons.

In the same area Allied planes had dropped more than eight tons of bombs on the great enemy base at Rabaul, in New Britain island, in a night attack in the early hours of Saturday morning, plastering the runway and the hanger area, and had raided the airdrome in the Lae area of New Guinea.

In their attack on Darwin yesterday the Japanese evidently were making a determined attempt to knock out Hughes airdrome, possibly in preparation for a more important attack which might divert attention from the United States naval and marines attack in the southern Solomons.

Raid Nazi Naval Base By Daylight

LONDON —(U.P.)— Sensationally successful daylight bombing attacks on French occupied territory last week by American army flying fortresses were followed yesterday by a daring daylight raid on the German Emden naval base by two big British Wellington bombers.

The planes dived through a cloud gap to 4,000 feet altitude to drop bombs which their crews saw burst among buildings in the dock area.

United States army headquarters announced that the Silver Star had been awarded to Maj. Gen. Ira C. Eaker, commanding the army bomber command, and Col. Frank A. Armstrong.

Armstrong commanded the flying fortresses which made the first big army raid on Rouen Aug. 17, and Eaker participated.

Headquarters announced also that Second Lieut. Richard S. Starks, Midway, Ky., was the pilot who, with his co-pilot dead, his right arm severely wounded and two of his four motors deadened by enemy fire, maintained control of his fortress in a flight over the North sea Friday and brought it to a safe landing.

The co-pilot was Second Lieut. Donald Walter, Painesville, O.

The army announced Saturday that the 11 fortresses bagged at least three and damaged or probably destroyed six more out of between 20 and 25 German fighters which attacked them. All the fortresses returned.

Three German bombers were shot down during the night out of a small force of enemy planes which attacked midlands towns.

Soldiers Vote Simple Letter Best Of Week

CAMP BLANDING, Fla. — (INS)—A group of Camp Blanding soldiers held a contest to decide who received the best letter during the week. There were missives from best girls, friends at home, an exciting note from a brother who had just landed with the new AEF in Ireland.

But the winning letter, shortest and simplest of all, was:

"Dear Son.

"Business is good. We have so many government orders that we are working 24 hours a day to fill them. But we will fill them.

"The Madden boy you didn't like has been reclassified and isn't 1-B any more so I guess he'll be drafted soon.

"Mother and I are proud of you, son. Keep up the good work. Enclosed find ten dollars.

"Affectionately, Dad."

Norma Shearer, Skiier Husband Start Honeymoon

HOLLYWOOD —(U.P.)— Norma Shearer and her ski instructor, Martin J. Arrouge, 28, began today at her house by the sea a honeymoon they expect to be ended shortly by the groom's induction into the army.

Miss Shearer, one of the wealthiest women in the movie colony, and Arrouge, who taught her and her two children how to ski four years ago at Sun Valley, Idaho, were married late yesterday at the church of the Good Shepherd in Beverly Hills.

Father John O'Donnell, who built his own church in Culver City from his wages as technical director in movies involving Catholic rituals, performed the ceremony.

Before the wedding Miss Shearer saw fit to announce that she inherited no $10,000,000 from her late husband, Irving Thalberg. She said she received from his estate $1,500,000 after tax deductions and that all of it was put in trust for her two children.

ASKS EQUIPMENT

Mayor Seeks CD Insignia For Labor Day Parade.

Urgent appeal has been made to Ohio Civilian Defense headquarters, Columbus, for arm brassards, helmets and other equipment for use by Mansfield defense units participating in Labor day parades and other festivities.

Mayor W. J. Locke said today that special emphasis was placed on the need of arm bands to identify the marchers. Thus far, only 780 helmets have been received for use by air raid wardens and others engaged in defense work.

Service Director Fred B. Wolff Saturday was directed to renew the city's appeal for this equipment, especially arm bands and helmets.

Quits Important Musical Job To Work In Shipyard

SAN FRANCISCO — (INS) — The Smith family is all out for war and with but one thing in mind—revenge.

Chester Smith, father of the clan, is employed at the Richmond, Cal., shipyards as a shipfitter's helper. He shelved a career as musical director for radio program to take the job helping produce ships for America's allies.

One son is graduating this month as a musician, first class, at the United States army base at San Diego. His second son is in the Royal Canadian Air Force.

The trio have all entered the war effort since Dec. 7, when the Arizona was blasted to the bottom at Pearl Harbor killing his third son, a 21-year-old non-commissioned officer of the Navy.

4-STRIPE MISS NOT A CAPTAIN

Navy Inspector Finds Officers Confused by Bars.

DETROIT—(U.P.)—Four stripes on the sleeve make a Navy captain, but Miss Mary Louise Stout, 25, years old, holds a rank that is even more exclusive than that.

Miss Stout, who is in charge of 270 women inspectors in the Detroit Naval Ordnance Distrrict, is believed to be the only "four-bar woman" in the naval ordnance service.

With less than a year in the service, Miss Stout, who has a Master's degree from Columbia University, is now assistant to the chief inspector in the Detroit district. The four bars indicate her civil service classification.

At first she wore the bars on the arm of her trim blue uniform, which she adopted at the suggestion of her superior to make things easier in traveling around the district and entering ordnance factories. But she had to give that up. The bars now decorate the left breast of her uniform.

"Too many navy officers were confusing me with a captain," Miss Stout explained.

'YANKEE DOODLE DANDY' BOOKED FOR FOUR-DAY RUN AT OHIO

"Yankee Doodle Dandy," the much-discussed film dealing with the life of George M. Cohan, and one of Warner Bros. prize movie offerings, comes to the Ohio theater Sept. 12 for a four-day-run.

The year's most patriotism-stirring film, "Yankee Doodle Dandy" is ranked by many critics on a par with "Gone With."

James Cagney turns in his finest performance in "Yankee Doodle Dandy."

Cagney portrays three decades in the life of Cohan, the song and dance man who thrilled vaudeville audiences with such unforgettable numbers as "Over There," "Give My Regards To Broadway," "So Long, Mary," "You're A Grand Old Flag," and numerous other old-time favorites.

Critics agree that Cagney's singing and dancing in pictures is likely to put him in line for Hollywood's 1942 academy award.

Grattan Johnson, Mansfield manager of Warner Bros., theater, said the film will show here at road-show prices. Matinee tickets will be at 75 cents with $1.10 the evening charge, all taxes included. Children will be admitted for 25 cents for matinees and 40 cents in the evening. There will be no seat reservations, Johnson said.
